Nixon Entourage Rests in Hawaii

Hangchow Possible Summit Site

ALOHA THE CHIEF—President Richard M. Nixon and wife Pat chat with Hawaii Governor John A. Burns (Right) on arrival at Kaneohe Marine Air Base, Hawaii, Thursday. President Nixon will spend two days relaxing here before continuing his historic trip to China. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

HONOLULU (AP) — President Nixon, tarrying here en route to his China summit talks, is likely to meet Chairman Mao Tse-tung in the picturesque resort city of Hangchow. American sources said this seemed a logical site for a Nixon-Mao conference since Hangchow, the next-to-last stop on the President's China itinerary, is a favored retreat of the 78-year-old Communist leader. A Hangchow meeting would further underscore the apparent political eclipse of Mao inasmuch as Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai are expected to dispose of serious negotiations in Peking before the American visitor sees Hangchow. The President and Mrs. Nixon, who arrived Thursday afternoon following a 10-hour non-stop flight from Washington, will remain in Hawaii until Saturday afternoon. Then they will fly to Guam for an overnight stay before proceeding to Shanghai and Peking. A major reason for the Hawaii stopover was to allow the Nixons to adjust gradually to the physical and psychological effects of traveling at jetspeed through time zones. Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who was with them aboard the presidential plane, said in response to newsmen's questions that the U.S. government has no confirmation of a report that Le Duc Tho, the Hanoi official who conducted secret negotiations with presidential advisor Henry A. Kissinger, would arrive in Peking a day before Nixon. Rogers offered no support for speculation that the North Vietnamese official would be meet-

The President worked during most of the flight from Washington, conferring on his China agenda with Rogers and Kissinger, a principle architect of the historic mission. Kissinger spent some 2½ hours alone with the chief executive while Rogers was with Nixon for less than an hour. Another measure of Kissinger's paramount influence in the China preparations: He was quartered next door to Nixon while Rogers was housed two doors away.

The Nixons borrowed the 17-room home of Brig. Gen. Victor Armstrong, a brigade commander. The spacious frame dwelling on the Kaneohe base sits on a hilltop and commands a spectacular view of the Pacific and nearby natural stone attractions such as Pyramid Rock and Chinaman's Hat.

Accompanying Press Corps Has Flying Language Course

EN ROUTE TO PEKING (AP) — Going to China aboard the press plane accompanying President Nixon, the stratosphere was heavy with the singsong sounds of Mandarin Chinese.

It wasn't an old Fu Manchou movie in the main cabin, but the flower of American journalism, Lotus Blossom division, trying to learn a few phrases of Chinese in a hurry.

"Wo yau yi tau Mao irfu"—or something like that—sang out the recorded tape cassettes handed out by presidential press aides.

The accompanying phrase book informed the 80-odd reporters and photographers that this meant: "I would like to buy a Mao suit."

"In blue cotton . . . with long sleeves," the combination recorded and printed lessons went on, but then the tailoring situation rapidly deteriorated. Not only was there nothing about a short sleeve model or any choice of colors available in the language lesson, but the dialogue developed a strident, argumentative tone.

"Pants so loose?" "A Chinese foot is different from American?"

"Will they be ready in three days?"

"See you Friday, July 6th."

That final kiss off date line in the chapter on chats with the tailor hinted that the pins and needles men in the People's Republic of China may have a way to go in catching up with their Hong Kong brothers in whipping up the threads for American tourists.

Like most instant language lessons devised for tourists, the course studiously pursued by the flying White House press corps dwelled excessively on impending important phrases such as "I need some aspirins" . . . "Tomorrow we will visit a textile factory" . . . "Where is a good Chinese restaurant?" . . . and the intriguing "Uncle Ling has a picture of San Francisco" were not the ring-

Still, the airborne Marco Polos whiled away the time memorizing a few phrases that have a lovely lilt in any language.

"There is no tipping under any circumstance" sounds almost as delectable in Mandarin as the terse, "Beer for me" and the enticing, "We would like not to be disturbed till noon tomorrow."

The press had the consolation of knowing that in preparation for Nixon's visit Chairman Mao Tse-tung was taking English lessons.

Recent Aircraft Loses at Seven

Three U.S. Planes Shot Down

SAIGON (AP) — The U. S. Command today announced the loss of seven more planes in the Indochina war, including three shot down during heavy raids on North Vietnam this week, a spotter plane in Cambodia and three others between Feb. 4 and Feb. 13. All six fliers aboard the planes lost in North Vietnam were missing, and three crewmen were killed and one was injured in the other crashes. While the command admitted three losses during the attacks on Wednesday and Thursday, North Vietnam claimed its forces shot down seven of the U.S. raiders, damaged several others and killed or captured a number of pilots. The plane losses over the North—two Air Force F4 Phantoms and an F105—were the heaviest since three jets were shot down during the last heavy raids on North Vietnam Dec. 26-30.

Pilots reported about 35 missiles were fired at them. The three planes downed were hit by the Soviet-built SAMS in an area less than 15 miles above the DMZ, the command said. The U.S. Command, announcing results of the 50 hours of air strikes at North Vietnam, which ended at dusk Thursday, said they destroyed or damaged seven long-range 130-mm artillery guns, two surface-to-air missile sites and five 85mm antiaircraft artillery guns. The main target of the strikes were the 130mm guns, which have a range of more than 16 miles and are the most powerful North Vietnam has. The command said they had been moved into the DMZ region for the first time in the war. In South Vietnam, the Viet Cong's four-day cease fire for the Tet festival of the lunar new year ended at 1 a.m., and a rash of small attacks was reported in the Saigon region and along the central and northern coasts.

Casualties included one South Vietnamese and one Viet Cong killed, and 27 South Vietnamese wounded.

The United States kept up intensified air attacks against enemy positions and staging areas in South Vietnam. The U.S. Command reported that

Air Force and Navy fighter-bombers flew 139 strikes and B52 bombers another 10 missions in South Vietnam Thursday and today. Most of the strikes were concentrated in the northwestern quarter of the country, from the Khe Sanh area south to the A Shau valley.

Motorists Drive on Washington

3,000 Protest Busing Directive

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Braving Washington's biggest snow storm of the year, more than 3,000 motorists from Virginia paraded through the capital Thursday to protest a court order directing widespread busing and consolidation of Richmond area schools.

Fighting traffic jams, the white protesters drove past the White House and the Capitol and sent teams of lobbyists to confer with dozens of congressmen. There is a drive under way in Congress for a constitutional amendment banning busing.

A spokesman for the demonstrators said 3,261 cars made the 100-mile trip from Richmond to Washington. Most of the cars were marked with a placard portraying a little red school house with the words "Help Save Freedom."

A few displayed other signs, including one which said, "If Richard Nixon won't stop busing, George Wallace will." A yellow school bus bearing "White Power" and "Gas the Race Mixers" signs and swastika insignia joined one section of the motorcade on Interstate 95 between Richmond and Washington. Inside were a half-dozen men wearing riot helmets, brown uniforms and swastika armbands, symbolic of the Nazi party.

A spokesman for the Richmond demonstrators called the men in the bus "standard Nazi party troublemakers."

"I know them," he said. "They were in Richmond trying to see the judge in federal court yesterday. I-95 is a public road and they got on it."

U.S. District Court in Richmond ordered consolidation of school districts in Richmond and neighboring Henrico and Chesterfield counties and decreed there should be widespread busing to mix the pupils in the predominantly black Richmond districts with the white pupils in the predominately white outlying districts.

It was the first time a court had ordered the consolidation of school districts in order to mix the races in different school jurisdictions. An appeals court has granted a stay of the order until busing opponents can appeal the district court order.

In a related development Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio, a Republican candidate for the presidential nomination, told newsmen, "The American people are so aroused over the busing issue that, given presidential leadership, an amendment to the Constitution would pass both houses and be ratified by the several states within six months."

Hughes' Stay in Nicaragua Termed 'Indefinite' by Aide

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Howard Hughes was presumably holed up today on the tightly guarded eighth floor of Managua's Intercontinental Hotel, and a spokesman in the United States said he would remain in the Central American country indefinitely.

Both President Anastasio Somoza's office and Hughes spokesmen in the United States confirmed that the eccentric billionaire flew to Managua Thursday after 15 months living in seclusion in a hotel in Nassau.

In Las Vegas a spokesman for the Hughes Tool Co. said Hughes' stay in Nicaragua was indefinite—"we aren't saying how long he'll be there, but 'indefinite' could indicate a certain degree of permanence." He added that Hughes is considering investments in the country and "considers the economic and political situation good."

Hughes reportedly left Nassau after a dispute with Bahamian officials over work permits for the staff that insulates him from physical contact with the outside world. He'll have no such trouble in Nicaragua, which is run by the oldest and one of the most secure dictatorships in Latin America.

"This was not a sudden thing," said another Hughes Tool source in Las Vegas. "Hughes did not just fly out of the Bahamas at the last moment with no real idea of where he was going. Hughes owns properties in Nicaragua and is considering further investments."

He added that Nicaragua is now the base of Hughes' operations, and that the 66-year-old industrialist almost certainly will not return to the Bahamas.

U.S. Ambassador Turner

Shelton told a reporter that two Hughes aides arrived Wednesday and made arrangements to rent all 17 rooms on the next-to-top floor of the Intercontinental, which is on a bluff overlooking Managua.

Day officials refused Thursday night to say if Hughes was there or even to acknowledge that the suddenly inaccessible eighth floor was reserved for Hughes and his staff. The elevators were disconnected to that floor, and the fire doors were sealed.

Hughes' flight came while court hearings were in progress in New York on the purported autobiography of Hughes written by Clifford Irving, a book

Time magazine has called a hoax. A spokesman for U.S. Atty. Whitney North Seymour Jr. declined to say whether a subpoena had been issued for Hughes to appear before the grand jury or whether any statements were sought from him while he was in the Bahamas.

Managua, steamy capital of this country of two million people on the Central American neck between Honduras and Costa Rica, is Hughes' third port of call since he left his Beverly Hills mansion in 1966.

For four years he lived in a tightly guarded penthouse at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas, then slipped out on Thanksgiving eve 1970 and moved into a ninth-floor suite in the Britannia Beach Hotel in Nassau.

Sources in Washington said Hughes arrived in Miami before dawn Thursday on board his yacht from the Bahamas. Eastern Airlines in Miami confirmed that Hughes' Tool Co. leased a Jetstar that flew to Managua Thursday morning, landing at the military airport several hundred yards from the commercial terminal. It was believed that Hughes was aboard.

The government announced Thursday that Hughes was coming at the invitation of President Somoza, himself a multimillionaire. Nicaraguans speculated, however, that the arrival caught Somoza by surprise because the president himself left on a previously arranged visit to Panama.

Shelton said he did not meet Hughes at the airport but thought he landed while Shelton and other ambassadors were there to see Somoza off to Panama.

"While we were at the airport the little jet landed," Shelton said. "I didn't see who got out, but I assume it was Hughes' plane."

Steps in New Paltz to Check Use of 'Sopor'

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ Steps are being taken in New Paltz to check the use of "Sopor" by students at State University College at New Paltz and New Paltz High School.

Though there have been only two confirmed incidents of use of the drug in the high school, high school science teacher George Campbell, chairman of the Joint Action Commission on Drug Abuse, said an information campaign was being mounted to acquaint the students with the dangers of taking the depressant hypnotic pills.

The situation at the college was more serious, according to Dr. David Mesches, the college's physician. He said he too was mounting an information campaign at the college, through various agencies, but there have already been serious incidents involving the drug.

Mesches said there had been a broken leg and a broken shoulder attributed to people falling while under the influence of the drug, and several cases of people collapsing from Sopor use.

So far the use of Sopor has been confined to the New Paltz area, but Michael Wood, the administrative director of the Ulster County Drug Commission, said there was a good possibility the use of the drug could spread through the county.

Sopor is not the mild, non-addictive, safe drug the rumors on the street say it is, according to all sources contacted by The Freeman. The drug's most dangerous property is that it is "synergistic".

A synergistic drug causes a reaction out of proportion to what might be expected when combined with another drug. As Mesches explained it, with Sopor when you add two plus two you don't get four; you get eight or 10.

Taking Sopor with alcohol can kill you. According to a letter sent home to parents by the high school physicians, Medical Associates of New Paltz, the cause of death is internal bleeding of the lungs, causing suffocation. Mixing the drug with barbiturates can be dangerous. Actually, the drug is bad enough by itself. Four things as strychnine, compounding the potential danger. The apparent source of the drug, normally sold by prescription only, is the hijacking of a pill-laden truck after it left the Arner Stone Laboratories in Illinois, the manufacturers of the drug.

Campbell said the theft netted 300,000 pills, some of which have now found their way to New Paltz. Mesches said the drug appeared in Binghamton before it got to New Paltz, and caused a serious problem there.

Sopor is a brand name for methaqualone, a non-barbiturate sleeping drug. Its use is not recommended for pregnant women or children 14 or under, according to Campbell.

Campbell said he had reports that the drug was now being manufactured locally. Mesches said he had reports the drug was being taken with LSD, with potentially disastrous results. Because of its synergistic properties the drug would be very dangerous taken with LSD, and Mesches pointed out LSD is seldom pure anymore; it is frequently laced with such things as strychnine, compounding the potential danger. Richard Stanulwich, the New Paltz School District's drug education coordinator, said the information campaign was just that, a move to put the facts before the students to help them make up their minds about the drug.

The campaign has taken the form of a fact sheet on the drug distributed to students. The facts set down debunk the supposed harmlessness of the drug. Campbell emphasized it was a fact sheet, not a "scare sheet."

Unfortunately, Sopor is cheap. The going price is 10 for a dollar, according to Mesches and Campbell. Mesches said the drug first appeared at the college about a month ago, and at the high school about two weeks ago.

Both Village and Town of New Paltz Police are conducting investigations into the sale of the drug, as is the Ulster County District Attorney's Office. Village Police Chief James Walrath reported little progress had been made so far, but the investigations were continuing.

The general reaction to the drug is excessive drowsiness, lethargy, depression, and loss of interest in one's surroundings. Other reactions sometimes noticed include headache, dizziness, or excessive anxiety states, according to the letter sent to the parents. The letter says peculiar skin eruptions have also occurred, which include hive-like eruptions and a rash. The letter also points out the drug may be habit-forming, and legal penalties exist if used without a doctor's prescription.

Mesches said the mild reputation the drug has somehow acquired, and the mistaken belief that no penalty was attached to its use, had caused some New Paltz youths not normally associated with the "drug scene" to become involved with the drug.

Dutchess Merger Explained

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK Making his first public speaking appearance in northern Dutchess County since taking office six weeks ago, County Executive William Bartles explained his positions on the Welfare Merger, the county parking garage, solid waste disposal, and some court revisions.

City Bid Opening Slated March 7

KINGSTON Bids will be opened on March 7 on a new heating system at the J. N. Cordis Fire Station at 211 Delaware Avenue.

Bids will include the cost of all labor and materials necessary for a complete installation of a new system and removal of the old system.

The firehouse serves the downtown section of the city. Tenth ward alderman Clifford G. Sinsabaugh told The Freeman today that the present heating system has been inadequate for several years. Originally, the firehouse had coal heat but was later converted to oil heat.

The company roster shows 135 members. Recently, the volunteer firemen, at their own expense, painted and paneled the interior of the firehouse.

Referring to a meeting held Thursday afternoon in Kingston of county representatives of the six mid-Hudson counties, Bartles said that some Ulster County officials had expressed "delight" at proposals to raise court fees and had asked that copies of paperwork be forwarded to them when Dutchess has completed its study.

The problem as outlined by Bartles is that Dutchess charges but $5 for criminal court and $3 for family court calendar spots while other counties in the 9th Judicial District, such as Westchester, Rockland, and Orange, charge $25 with Westchester planning to go to $35.

Bartles proposed that the figure of $35 be adopted by Dutchess, bringing an expected revenue of $30,000 and placing the cost on those who use the courts most often rather than spreading it out in general taxation.

He described the court situation in the county as difficult, pointing specifically to Family Court where people wait in long lines for hours. "We must put on another Family Court," he said.

On other points he told the gathering of Red Hook Chamber of Commerce members that he was in favor of single member districts, calling the present system "gerrymandering" and politically motivated.

On the welfare merger between the City of Poughkeepsie and the county, mandated by the state, Bartles spoke in favor of the plan.

"No county can call itself prosperous with a decaying city in its midst," he said. He forecast that it would not make a substantial difference to county residents as population outside the city is much larger than in Poughkeepsie and welfare recipients are getting more prevalent outside the city anyway.

Bartles said that no one would receive any pressure from him on either accepting or rejecting the Trautman Associates solid waste disposal plan scheduled for public hearings this month at various locations around the county.

He once again scored those representatives who had voted for the $2 million parking garage just before leaving office and said all of his mail on his veto had been favorable.

And in relation to persons complaining about walking two blocks to the county office building Bartles said, "I feel that government should do for people only what they cannot do for themselves."

Expressing great disgust at the state's priorities in allotting $30 million for Stewart Field, Bartles said he had just received a letter from the state saying that the annual conference on aging in New York City had been cancelled because of lack of funds. He said he dictated a letter back in disgust about "that thing" in Newburgh.

"I don't criticize the airport as much as the methods used by the MTA," he noted.

And concerning preliminary moves by some members of the Board of Representatives to revise the county charter, Bartles said he felt most of it had stood up pretty well but just was not being enforced properly.

And he added that he thought some changes proposed would "offset the system of checks and balances by diluting the power of the executive branch."

Bartles answered all questions in a straightforward manner, living up to his self-proclaimed designation of being not a politician but a public official.

DA Cites New Paltz Discord

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

Ulster County District Attorney Francis A. Vogt, angered that his department has been asked to investigate charges that the New Paltz police department headquarters has been bugged, suggested Wednesday that police agencies there "stop fooling around and start fighting crime."

The latest installment in the continuing controversy between the New Paltz town and village police departments came Wednesday when village police commissioner John Logan revealed that a hidden microphone had been used to "bug" police headquarters.

Logan said the device was found Feb. 3. He charged that the microphone cord led to a tape recorder in town police headquarters, which adjoins the village police department.

Logan and Village Police Chief James Walrath reported the incident to Vogt on Feb. 9 and asked that an investigation be conducted.

Vogt said Wednesday that he is not optimistic that his investigation will reveal any concrete evidence. "In view of the fact that they waited so long to report this," said Vogt, "the only thing I can do is question the town police officers. I don't expect to come up with anything."

Logan said today that he waited six days to report the incident because he was attempting to obtain additional evidence. "We were conducting our own investigation," he said.

Vogt said the only evidence he has is a photo of a microphone placed near a radiator. "How the hell do I know who put it there?"

"They fooled around with their own investigation until the thing was removed," said Vogt, "and now they come screaming around here demanding an investigation."

"We've got murders, rapes and burglaries to solve. I told them this nonsense would have to wait," said Vogt.

"I'm supposed to waste my time with this nonsense? It's absolutely ridiculous. They're acting like a bunch of children. It's time they grew up, and it's time they started fighting crime. God knows they've got enough of it down there."

Vogt said his investigation would be concluded today. "I have no great hopes that we'll come up with anything," he said.

In answer, Logan said Vogt's "attitude" is "demoralizing to the members of my department. We went to him because we needed help. Now my officers are saying 'What's the use if he (Vogt) isn't going to do anything.' Logan, nevertheless, said he is "optimistic" that Vogt's investigation will uncover the source of the mysterious and disappearing microphone.

Medical Study Sunday

KINGSTON

The Ulster Branch of the American Association of Medical Assistants will hold a seminar for area physicians and their medical assistants on Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

An attorney from Martin, Clearwater and Bell of New York City will give a short talk on malpractice suits and will answer questions from the audience. Two films — "Tribute to a Medical Assistant" and "Case in Point" — will be shown. They were obtained through the courtesy of Wyeth Laboratories.

Mrs. Howard Mass of Kingston is chairman of the event.

Drug Problem Discussion Scheduled

KINGSTON

Temple Emanuel Brotherhood will hear a discussion of the drug problem at its monthly bagels and lox brunch Sunday 10 a.m.

Guest speaker will be Dr. Jerome Goodman, administrative director of the psychology department at St. Francis Hospital, Poughkeepsie, and coordinator of the Kingston Methadone Maintenance Clinic. His topic will be What Can We Do About the Drug Problem.

The brunch will be held at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue. All interested men, women and teenagers may attend.

School Busing Change

In this generation of social revolution, Supreme Court liberalization and spreading racial integration, few problems have proved more complex than the effort to establish more ethnic balance in the public schools.

Forced busing has been the expedient most utilized and few can dispute the contention that the method has fallen far short of its intended purpose.

Initially, the conveying of pupils from one area of a community to another had appeared the ideal solution to combating the "caste" system that had become a way of life, especially in Southern cities and towns.

The "separate but equal" facilities came under attack of reform groups who successfully challenged the plan in the courts after failing to effect change on the local level. And while liberals everywhere hailed the legal victory, they did not anticipate the Pandora's box that had been opened. A plan that seemed equitable on paper just hasn't worked out and for a very good reason. Those involved are human beings, not inanimate objects—parents with emotion and children with sensitivity.

Thus, for the sake of balance and to comply with court directives, children of all ages were being plucked from their familiar neighborhoods and driven miles from home where, in sometimes hostile milieu and strange environment, they were supposed to have a better chance to acquire an education.

The problem, it developed, was nationwide and not just a Southern situation. Objections have been voiced by blacks as well as whites.

Unquestionably, many persons have overreacted. The burning of school buses in Pontiac, Mich., following ugly confrontations, was completely unjustified. There is no excuse for violence and destruction.

But reasonable men, too, have objected. They point to the trauma that inevitably many immature youngsters must suffer as a result of the forced busing, to the unbelievable waste of time and to the burden imposed on communities by the added transportation costs. This is money that well could be applied to actual educational programs.

A classic example of the extent to which some courts have interpreted the integration philosophy is in Richmond, Va., where the school board was ordered to bus children even beyond the city's geographical lines.

President Nixon gave comfort recently to the anti-busing elements when he flatly asserted he opposed busing for the purpose of racial balance. "I favor local control of schools," he said.

With a new, more conservative lineup in the Supreme Court, it's quite possible a much-needed change may be in the wind.

How Soft Are We?

"The trouble with you Yanks is that you're too soft," the big Norwegian said. "Your life—it is too full, too easy." He was trying to explain why the United States Olympic Team did so poorly at Sapporo. Are we really that soft? It is true that our full life—schools, cars, movies, TV, travel, all sports, pizza hangouts, boats and all the rest of it—keeps our young people from being as good at winter Olympic events as the young people of other nations? Maybe.

But there is some other evidence to consider. The very best of the young people entered by some other nations have been beating us in most winter events. But the very best is not necessarily the whole truth.

For example, the Russian hockey team which beat the daylight out of our American team—7 to 2—plays hockey together 11½ months out of the year. The Russians say they are amateurs because they are not paid to play hockey. Instead, they have other jobs, assigned by the state, that do not interfere with their playing hockey full-time.

Actually, the Russian team is comparable to our professional teams. And, certainly, not our college or amateur teams. The same truth applies to all Russian athletes in the Olympics. They work for the state—there are no other employers in the USSR—and are assigned jobs that will not interfere with their full-time, first-line responsibility of successfully representing Russia in international events.

We're softer than we used to be all right. But our young people are taller, stronger, healthier and better educated than ever before. We're softer because we don't have to be as tough as our forefathers crossing the western plains or carving out a new world. But we're far from pudgy slobs.

WASHINGTON — President Nixon is prepared, as a gesture to Peking, to abandon U.S. support of the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu. Yet as Vice President, he was willing to risk nuclear warfare over the same offshore islands in 1958.

A secret study of the 1958 Quemoy-Matsu crisis, prepared for the Pentagon by the Rand Corporation, claims that the United States was ready to use nuclear weapons to defend the islands.

Inside the policy councils, no one was more militant over the two tiny islands than Richard Nixon who now, ironically, considers both Quemoy and Matsu to be expendable.

This doesn't mean he will hand over the two islands to Chou En-lai as poker chips on the Peking conference table. But the United States no longer will help Chiang Kaishek defend them.

The U.S. commitment to defend Taiwan itself, it should be emphasized, is still in effect. But the commitment won't continue to include Quemoy and Matsu.

U.S. military experts believe Chiang is quite capable of defending the islands without U.S. help. But they think he would be wiser to negotiate an offshore island settlement with the Chinese Communists.

Secret Study

The paperwork on this was started even before Nixon moved into the White House. A secret study suggests that "several substantial reductions could be made in GRC naval forces (meaning Chiang's navy) were it to negotiate with the CPR (Chinese Communists) an offshore island settlement."

"First the GRC amphibious capability could be reduced by two-thirds. The ability to land 5,000 marines on the Penghus (guarding the approaches to Taiwan) as reinforcements would be more than adequate for the defense of that area. Such a reduction would free at least 2,900 men from the Navy, saving the GRC about $820,000 annually in manpower costs, and obviating the need for further LST repairs."

"Secondly, GRC ocean control and surveillance forces could also be reduced, perhaps at least one-third, because operations along the mainland coast and in support would be unnecessary. This would save the GRC at least of offshore island resupply $530,000 annually in manpower costs."

The study also provides a detailed analysis of the military threat to Taiwan and concludes that Chiang's forces could repulse a Chinese Communist invasion.

"The CIA intelligence survey of Taiwan identifies four major and two minor beach areas suitable for amphibious landings," states the survey.

It spells out in precise detail the likely battle scenario and concludes flatly: "When the reserves are deployed, the GRC would outnumber the CPR threat in any sector by at least two to one. Overall, the GRC would outnumber the assault force by at least five to one."

"As indicated previously, based on U.S. World War II and Korea experience, an attack to defense ratio of three to one is normally required to assure the success of an amphibious attacking (assuming the attacker can gain naval and air superiority)."

On this subject, the military experts believe Chiang has enough naval power to deter the Chinese Communists from attempting an amphibious assault.

U.S. Support

Declares the study: "Since we seek to avoid a direct US-CPR confrontation, we have assisted the GRC through MAP (military aid program) in developing a navy adequate to: (1) patrol the coast; (2) resupply the offshore islands; (3) clear mines; and (4) crippling amphibious attacks on the offshore islands (and) Taiwan."

"The GRC navy can accomplish all these missions now. It will retain these capabilities through FY73 (fiscal year 1973) without major investments in new ships or craft largely because the CPR does not appear to be developing naval offensive forces."

U.S. officials have suggested in their secret discussions, meanwhile, that old Chiang Kai shek has enough cash stashed away to pay more of his own military bills. He is holding the money to finance his dream of reconquering the Chinese mainland.

The U.S. mission in Taiwan has reported in a "secret working paper" that "we do know privately that the GRC has considerable sums of money in special funds, mostly marked for contingency use in mainland recovery."

The Americans, however, believe Chiang is so obsessed with his dream of returning to the mainland that he won't spend the invasion funds for any other purpose.

"The possibility that these funds would be used for routine military expenditures," states the report, "is remote, and they would be disbursed only as a last resort."

David Lawrence Says

Nuclear Superiority

WASHINGTON — The guessing game has already started. Diplomats as well as those men in Europe, Asia and this country who have followed closely our foreign policy are trying to predict the outcome of President Nixon's visit to Peking and to evaluate the consequences.

Mr. Nixon himself rightly warns the public not to expect "instant solutions" to deep-seated differences and speaks of his coming journey as "a beginning." He recognizes the significance of the trip as he notes that the most powerful nation in the world and the most populous nation — the United States and the People's Republic of China — have begun "a process of communication."

The President is hopeful, too, that when he visits Moscow positive steps toward peace may be taken with Soviet officials "Particularly in arms limitation and economic cooperation."

But while the guessing is going on, Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird revealed in his annual report to Congress this week that the United States must promptly begin a substantial expansion of its nuclear forces to offset the Soviet build-up which has shown "even greater momentum" in the past year. Secretary Laird feels that the United States should proceed quickly with its weapons research program and increases of naval and nuclear arsenals. From published references to a "major new Soviet military capability," it appears that the Russians are developing a means of shooting down or neutralizing U.S. satellites in space.

The Defense Secretary also declared that the Soviet Union has moved up its production of missile-firing submarines and will surpass the size of the U.S. undersea missile fleet by the end of 1973. He pointed out that since 1969 the Russians have held a numerical advantage in land-based missiles. He reported that they will have 1,550 of these by this summer, which is 50 more than last summer, compared with the constant 1,054 the United States has had since 1968. He added:

"It would be diplomatically and politically unacceptable for the U.S. to allow the Soviets to achieve a large numerical superiority in both land-based and sea-based strategic missiles. Moreover, there would be an increased military risk."

Secretary Laird warned in his report a year ago of the threat of the Soviet military build-up, and now calls attention to developments which "have brought the strategic reality into sharper focus during the past year."

The Secretary of Defense disclosed that the Chinese apparently have been concentrating on medium-range missiles which are able to hit Russia and "most of the cities and other area-type targets in South and East Asia. A few of these have been deployed and a modest force is expected this year."

So it is evident that, while there is talk of peace negotiations, military preparations are proceeding. And the effort of President Nixon to reach an agreement on arms limitation is of the utmost importance. The feeling is that an understanding by both sides of the problems of a possible war makes the President's trip necessary. Mr. Nixon put it this way:

"This is why, for the first time, a President of the United States will visit Moscow. I will go to that meeting in May with no naive illusions, but with some reasonable expectations."

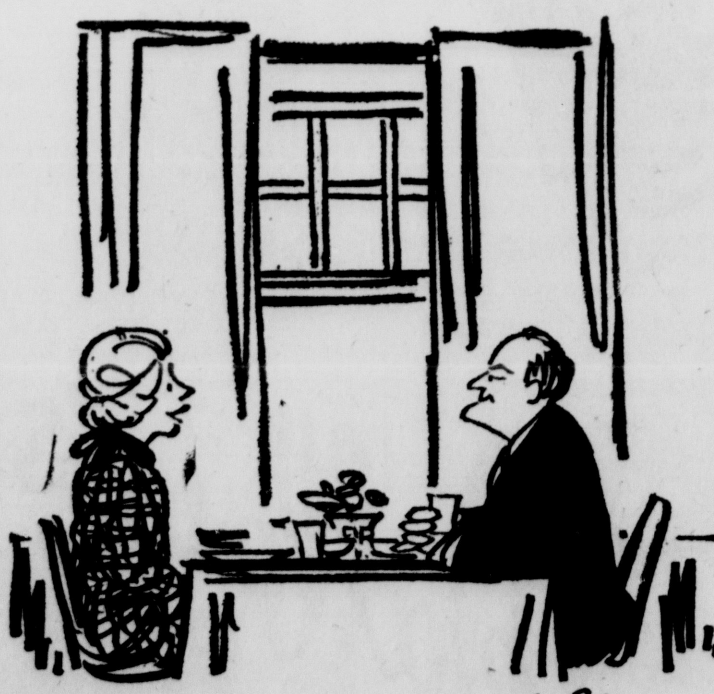

It is conceivable that the United States might become a real ally of the Peking regime, and that the differences of opinion which have kept Mainland China and America apart will be superseded by the importance and the gravity of the troubles that lie ahead.

The real problem which the United States faces is the rise in strength of another nuclear power — the Soviet Union. Friction in Eastern Europe could easily bring on a war, and Mr. Nixon is anxious to get an agreement on arms limitation so that peace can be assured for Europe as well as Asia. He will not accomplish all this on his first trip, but the emissaries he will be sending afterwards will know the scope of the whole program which President Nixon will have opened up, during his forthcoming visits to Peking and Moscow. It will be their duty to bring to fruition the peaceful agreement which the President will be urging both the Chinese government and the Soviet government to support, as the world offers them bigger advantages in trade and other economic opportunities if the threat of war can be removed.

The Uncle Tom on Our Block

BERRY'S WORLD

© 1972 by NEA, Inc.

He bought the house across the street and we sat on a stoop and watched him mow a summer lawn tall with seed. He seemed big when I was 10, but years later I realized that he was a short, strong black, a man of molasses skin and kinky white hair and a bald head.

Mr. Thomas Scott was the first black on our block. He looked at people who trod his sidewalk. If they didn't nod or smile, he took no offense. The house was brown, two-story, with a porch across the front and some milky looking windows with lace curtains behind them.

I guess my father was the big man on our street because he was a police lieutenant and wore gold bars on his collar and cuffs and carried a nightstick with a leather thong. He walked as though he knew he was important. People brought their problems to our flat and my mother and the children often waited in another room while he talked.

Scott lived with an older sister who was as shapeless as a housedress on a clothes hanger. Sometimes we could hear her complaining. I saw her rocking on that brown porch many times, but she never looked happy. Her nose pruned up as though she smelled something bad.

One day I said, "Hello, Mister Scott." I don't know why. I had heard grown-ups complain about "a nigger on our block." Mr. Scott had brown eyes and he looked as old as Moses. He said, "Hello, young man." I stopped and leaned on his fence. He was painting and he was using a turpentine rag to get white paint off black hands.

Maybe I was the first to say hello. He leaned on the other side of the fence and we talked. Not as old man to boy, but like man to man. He told me he had been a Pullman porter for 40 years and met lots of nice folks. He had no wife, no children, just a sister who was always complaining.

We talked a week later. He asked me why I looked down at my shoes. I said I wanted to go to the movies and my mother wouldn't give me 10 cents. "What did you do to earn it?" Mr. Scott said. I thought about it. "Nothing," I said. "Did your mamma ask you to do something and you didn't do it?" There was more thinking. I could think of three things.

"A man has to grow up doing everything his mamma tells him," he said softly. I nodded. "Without pay," he said. At once, I didn't like him. He scratched the bald head. "Your mamma wash your clothes? She feed you good? She give you medicine when you sick? Tell me, how much do you pay her?"

He had six trash barrels in the cellar. Mr. Scott advised me to ask my mamma if I could wheel those barrels out front for 10 cents. I ran. Mother had no objection.

From that day on, I worked part time for Uncle Tom Scott. Other children began to speak to him. Grown-ups, too. He kept the neatest, shiniest house on the street. Sometimes, when I was weeding his flower beds, he would lean on his knees and tell me stories about fast trains roaring through the night full of important white folks sound asleep.

I must always say "Yes, ma'am" and "No, ma'am" to all ladies, he said. I must say "Yes, sir" and "No, sir" to my father and to shopkeepers. He said that "Thank you" was the cheapest phrase, and the most important.

On Saturday mornings I earned from 10 cents to 25, depending upon the work. When we became friends, he took me inside and showed me his prize — a bed once owned by Thomas Jefferson. It was high off the floor and had a side drawer for infants to sleep near their mothers. He tried to explain what that bed would mean to a black man, but I didn't understand.

The Pullman porter and the police lieutenant became casual friends. My mother demanded to know why I had to learn good manners from a stranger. I told her I didn't know. It was something about the way Uncle Tom Scott explained the effect they had on other people.

We moved away when he was five years older. He walked bent forward and had to raise his eyes and the skin on his forehead to see people. We shook hands goodbye. I thanked him. He said he never gave me a penny I didn't earn and the thank you was unnecessary.

I never saw him again. Many years later, when I was married, I stopped the car in front of the brown house. Tom Scott was dead. So was his irritable sister. The weeds were high in the front yard. "Who owns this house?" I asked a boy. He shrugged. "Nobody," he said casually. "See, it was once owned by niggers."

A HONEYMOON IGLOO IS AN ICICLE BUILT FOR TWO

Woodstock Supervisor ... 'Town Complex Leaving City'

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK
The way supervisor Verner May sees it, the Woodstock "town complex" will be leaving the "inner city" for the "suburbs" within the next 10 years.

And the first step in that direction was taken by the Town Board this week when members voted unanimously to purchase the St. Joan of Arc Church property on Rock City Road, along with several acres behind the adjoining Andy Lee Memorial Field from the Arthur Zaidenbergs.

The board also authorized $66,500 in serial bonds and $3,000 in capital notes, $60,000 of which will go toward the purchase of the church building and property. Most of the remainder will go toward purchasing three or four — perhaps even 10 — acres of the Zaidenberg land.

Since the town already owns the recreation field, the adjoining church and Zaidenberg properties will give it a large tract of land only short blocks from the village center. And, says May, he can visualize in a decade the removal of the present Town Hall Annex complex from its crowded and sorely lacking in parking facilities location on Tinker Street to the Rock City Road site. Such a future relocation might eventually house town offices and a hall, planning headquarters, a youth center, a community center, even the post office. There would also be abundant room for parking, picnicking and outdoor recreation, with no possibility of overcrowding for two or three decades.

Once such a new complex was in operation, the present buildings on Tinker Street might temporarily house some governmental functions — or be sold off to help finance the Rock City Road development.

In the interest of a more "aesthetic environment" for Woodstock, the board also voted this week to create a Civic Arts Council, with members to be named shortly and to serve for two years without pay.

May says the "thrust of this agency is to the business sector of Woodstock, and the council will be concerned with examining construction of buildings, additions to existing buildings, the decorative arts, and advising the town fathers on the general beauty and appearance of the town, while also "interpreting" the local sign ordinance.

A March deadline has been set for a new sign ordinance, and the ordinance is presently being reviewed by the Planning Board with an eye to the proposed changes already suggested.

New and stiffer penalties have also been approved by the board in connection with Woodstock's dog ordinance. Complaints brought by neighbors or others against dogs found off the premises of their owners, or dogs not properly tethered or leashed in public, could bring fines of up to $150.

The board will also petition the State Department of Transportation for a reduction of the speed limit from 55 to 35 miles per hour on Witchtree, Van de Bogart and Vandale roads in Zena, and will begin enforcing one side of the street only parking on Pine Grove and Deming Streets and on Sled Hill Road in the Village proper. Acknowledging a request from the local Chamber of Commerce, urging the town to establish a parking area on the west end of the village similar to the one opened recently on the east end of town — to accommodate businesses from Tannery Brook to the Woodstock Motel, the board had a novel reply. May suggested the C of C could find a solution to the parking situation on the west end of town, since a town sponsored parking lot would require meters for its financing.

Businessmen Schedule Speaker

DONALD A. MACISAAC

KINGSTON
Donald A. MacIsaac, manager of Community Relations and Information at IBM Kingston, will be the principal speaker at the Annual Installation Dinner Dance of the Ulster Businessmen's Association, Inc. to be held Saturday, Feb. 26 at the Walnut Grove, according to Robert R. Regan, dinner chairman.

Officers to be installed at the dinner are: Joe Cornelske, president; Regan, vice president; Louis Gruberg, treasurer and Bette Maxson, secretary. All were reelected at the Annual Meeting in January.

Directors assuming office for the current year are: Louis DiDonna and Bernie Singer, three year terms; Richard Cragg and Howard Fox, two year terms; and Thomas DiMicco and Robert Sudlow, one year terms.

The evening's festivities begin at 6:30 p.m. with a dutch treat cocktail hour, followed by dinner at 7:30 p.m. After the program, there will be dancing to music by Bill Sacker's orchestra. Reservations may be made by Feb. 21 with Chairman Regan at PPG Industries Inc. or at the Ulster offices of Kingston Trust and Bankers' Trust.

Income Tax Assistance Available

ALBANY

Assistance in the preparation of New York State income tax returns will be available to residents of Dutchess and Ulster Counties Mondays and Tuesdays, starting Feb. 28, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. at the Poughkeepsie Branch Office of the New York State Tax Department located at 6 Raymond Avenue, Poughkeepsie. This service will be provided daily, Monday through Friday, beginning April 3 and continuing through April 17.

Francis X. Maloney, Albany District Tax Supervisor, said that before the New York State income tax return can be prepared, the Federal return must be completed. Therefore, anyone wishing help at the State Tax Office should take a copy of his Federal return as well as his New York State withholding statement (Form IT-2102). Tax forms are also available at the local office.

New York State tax assistance may also be received over the telephone on the days listed above by calling the Poughkeepsie office.

Julian Bond Is Slated As Speaker

STONE RIDGE
Julian Bond will be guest lecturer at Ulster County Community College March 20 under sponsorship of the Student Government Organization.

Bond, the first black man nominated for vice president at the 1968 Republican National Convention, will speak on "Collision Course in America."

The lecture, open to the public will be held in John Quimby Auditorium starting 8 p.m.

UCCC Will Offer Course on Preparing for the Wedding

This spring Ulster County Community College will offer a credit-free course designed for prospective brides, their relatives, and people in the related "wedding" industry.

The course, Preparing for the Wedding, will be given on eight Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock in Room 634 of the Hardenburgh on the Stone Ridge campus starting March 16.

The instructor will be Mrs. Dorothy A. Narel, Woman's Page Editor of the Kingston Daily Freeman. For the past 17 years she has served as the newspaper's consultant on weddings and etiquette.

Weddings are big business and unless a prospective bride has a plan and knows how to organize the great event of her life, she could find herself caught up in a web of frustration, woes and exhaustion.

Therefore, to capture the entire wedding picture, this course will offer the guidance of special consultants involved in the "marriage business." They will discuss related topics including photography, religious and non-religious ceremonies, medical and legal aspects of marriage, wedding attire, invitations, caterers and floral arrangements.

It will be a concise, interesting course on the planning of today's wedding in keeping with contemporary moods.

Mrs. Narel also will discuss traditional marriages, newer life styles that perplex and dismay many parents, early marriages, and even communal living.

A popular lecturer, Mrs. Narel was a woman's program director for the radio and UHF television station prior to her association with The Daily Freeman. She is a charter member and past president of the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club and a charter member of the area's only service club for women executives, the Zonta Club of Kingston.

Mrs. Narel was the first woman to serve as vice president of the Empire State Council of Newspaper Guilds and the first woman president of the American Newspaper Guild, Kingston Unit. She holds a directorship on the Community Concerts Association Board and is on the advisory board to Cabrini Home in West Park.

Mrs. Narel is listed in "Who's Who of American Women," the "International Registry of Who's Who" and the new edition of "Foremost Women in Communications."

Further information on this and other credit-free courses being offered by the College this spring can be obtained by calling the Center for Continuing Education at the College.

Valentine Queens Chosen by Beta Sigma Phi Chapters

Local chapters of Beta Sigma Phi elected their Valentine Queens Saturday, Feb. 12 at a dinner-dance in Walnut Grove in Kingston.

Mrs. Louis Mariotti was selected by Beta Sigma Phi and Mrs. David Squires was chosen queen by Eta Eta Chapter. Their pictures will be entered in the Beta Sigma Phi International Sorority Contest in November.

Mrs. Mariotti resides in Sunset Park with her husband and three daughters, Susan, Ellen and Karen. She first joined Beta Sigma Phi in Schenectady and has been an active member for 15 years, the past five of which have been in Kingston. Mrs. Mariotti is a past president of her chapter and has also held the offices of secretary and treasurer. She is now serving as chairman of the Social Committee. She has also received the Girl of the Year Award twice. She has been a Girl Scout leader, is an active member of the Chambers School P.T.O. and is Secretary of the Board of Directors of the Association for Retarded Children.

Loan Closet Items Available

"The Town of Olive Public Health Committee announces to all town residents that walkers, crutches, beds and other sickroom supplies are available on a free loan basis from their loan closet."

The West Shokan closet is under the direction of Mrs. Herbert Wells, R.N. and the Shokan loan closet is supervised by Mrs. Floyd Merrihew.

The Olive Blood Bank, available to all town residents, is directed by Mrs. Frank Snyder, R.N. of Olive bridge. Residents requiring help should contact these persons or president of the Town of Olive Public Health Committee, Mrs. LeeRoy Crosswell of Shokan.

Town organizations who have contributed to the Public Health Committee loan closets in the past include the American Legion Auxiliary, the Olive Fire Auxiliary, also many members of the Public Health Committee, formerly known as the Town of Olive Public Health Nursing Committee.

Sawkill Fire Company Auxiliary News

The next monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of Sawkill Fire Company is slated for Monday, Feb. 21 at 8 p.m. at the firehouse. New members and guests are always welcome.

The Auxiliary recently sponsored a card party for the Town of Kingston Senior Citizen's Club. The party was largely attended.

Local 4-H Club members headed by Mrs. Mary Ruth prepared refreshments which were served by Auxiliary committee which included Mrs. Victoria Dye, Mrs. Irene McInnis, Mrs. Annalise Moss and Mrs. Robert Ferrigan.

Since its organization last summer, the local Senior Citizen group has generated considerable interest among the elderly residents of the Town. The Auxiliary feels that joint club participation in sponsoring such projects as the card party has lead to a closer knit community.

Local DAR Meeting Held

The February 7 meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was held Monday evening in the Chapter House, Mrs. George F. Dingee presiding.

Speaker was Theodore H. Wohnsiedler, Professor of Biology, Ulster County Community College, whose subject, "Esopus Creek From Purity to Pollution," was illustrated by slides portraying its environs, beauty, fish-life, pollutions, and its future if means are not devised to clear and protect this important stream. A prolonged question and answer period portrayed the interest created by his program.

The usual half-scholarship to the Chapter's Tamassee Schoolchild Doris Wood was voted. Reports were given on Conservation by Mrs. Carleton B. King, regarding tree and shrub planting, bird-feeding; National Defense by Mrs.

Albert P. Byrne; American Heritage, Miss Inez Banks; attendance at the Americanism program of the Conrad J. Gross and Mrs. Porter; American History Month Proclamation, Mrs. Frank Johnson.

Resolutions were read by Mrs. Arthur Hazenbush upon the death of two members: the Mmes. Alfred M. Rejya, Roscoe C. Irwin.

Mrs. Eugene Hoffman, registrar, reported the acceptance in Washington of four new members who will be initiated at the March meeting by Mrs. Dingee.

Elected was a nominating committee: Miss Isabel Herdman, the Mmes. Charles A. Reis, James J. Murphy, Frank R. Johnson, Adam H. Porter.

Members were reminded of the Washington's Birthday observance Tuesday evening, Feb. 22 at 7:30 with Donald C. Ringwald who will display pictures and speak on, "Hudson River Steamboats."

Supper hostesses were the Mmes. Charles A. Reis, John M. Schleede, James K. Murphy.

Organists' Guild to Meet Monday

Mrs. Stephen Hopkins, assisted by John Davis and Mrs. Stephen Lacey, will preside at the February 21st meeting of the American Guild of Organists to be held at the First Presbyterian Church in Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Lacey, a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University, has held several positions in the area, and presently is organist and choir director at Christ Church Methodist in Beacon.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. and organists and choir directors are invited to attend Refreshments will be served.

English Classes to Start at YWCA

Do you speak Spanish? Would you also like to speak English?

The YWCA of Kingston is offering a class in "Conversation and Development of English". This class will start on Tuesday, Feb. 29, and will continue through May. This is a fine opportunity to participate in a free course with which one can better orient himself in a country where it is necessary to speak English in order to get decent employment.

The class will meet on Tuesdays from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. and will be led by Jacob Zarembek, a native of Colombia and a Spanish student at the University of New York in New Paltz.

Those wishing to enroll should contact Miss Fischer at YWCA, Kingston.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you said, "If identical twins really want to be 'individuals,' they should not dress alike."

I am an identical twin, and I disagree with you because my twin and I have been mistaken for each other just as often, wearing entirely different outfits as when we dressed alike.

Dressed differently, we had to identify ourselves to everyone we met. "I'm June, dressed in green today. Jean is wearing blue."

We felt we were more individually identified when we dressed alike because then people would have to find a distinguishing facial feature, a mole, something personal in order to tell one from the other.

I have often heard the "Don't-dress-alike" theory to encourage their individuality, but I cannot believe that clothes make the twins or the individual.

Sincerely

MRS. J. P. A.

DEAR MRS. A.: I see your point, but do not agree with you. I maintain that when twins are small, and have no voice in their selection of clothing, most mothers will dress them alike because they

Senators Turn Back Orange Colts, 97-78

By IRA FUSFELD

STONE RIDGE
The funny thing about Thursday evening's basketball game at the Senate Gym was that Ulster Community out-fouled visiting Orange, 28 to 11, the Colts converted 28 out of 33 free throw tries, and the Senators still won by 19 points, 97-78.

It was that type of game.

Amidst all the bickering between the officials and both benches (mostly the Ulster side), and even though UCCC Coach Mike Perry was constantly yelling at his players, and despite a rather sluggish effort by most of the Senators, Ulster still scored the victory and nearly broke the 100 point barrier again.

The one factor that tied the whole package was the Senators' defense. That was what Perry kept imploring his forces to improve upon and that's what caused a good many of the fouls. It also gave the air around the UCCC bench a bit of lightning as Perry's thunderbolts towards the players soon carried over to the officials.

But after the game had ended, and things had quieted down, a bit of hindsight revealed an interesting point: though there seemed to be little doubt that some of the officials' calls were more than questionable, the books show Ulster continually picking up more fouls than the other team and you can't always blame the refs.

"I'm beginning to have some doubts about the defense," admitted Coach Perry. "We're always doubling the fouls and I know for sure we're going to be in for trouble on Saturday when Westchester comes in. They're a much better team than Orange."

Is the defense really in need of that much work? Not any more than complete hustle and the elimination of a couple of mental mistakes would correct. But Perry is a perfectionist and also a psychologist and with the Regionals coming up he wants nothing less than errorless ball.

The big problems against Orange were mental lapses. The hustle was most evidently absent from the offense where Henry Nixon, Jackie Knowles, and Gary McDonald seemed to be the only hard workers.

Neither team was particularly sharp when the game began. Nixon was a lone live wire for Ulster in the first ten minutes as the Senators managed just a five point lead at 15-10. Others in the UCCC lineup awakened from time to time, enough so that the winners could stay safely ahead of Orange.

But it easily could have been a rout. The Colts, mainly because of their success on the foul line, stayed in the contest, and went off the court at intermission trailing by nine, 39-30.

And while the teams went off the court, Perry followed the officials all the way to the locker room protesting a technical called on someone on the Ulster bench. The question was, who?

Earlier Perry had been hit with a technical of less questionable nature and before that a personal was called on Knowles when everyone in the gym knew Coleman Link should be fingered.

These incidents got the fans excited and after that no call against Ulster was considered to be the right one by the bleacherites.

Perry was more concerned with the play of his club in the second half. Only in the last six minutes did UCCC finally shake off the Colts. Before that Sam Quimby and Ken O'Grondnick were contributing heavily from the floor and Barry Truhn was popping them in from the foul line.

However in the waning moments, Ulster was hitting on two baskets to the Colts' one until the final margin made things seem a lot easier than they were.

Quimby and Truhn shared (11), and Nelson Marcelle (12) game honors with 24 points apiece. O'Grondnick hit 17.

Link led Ulster with 19, but he picked up a lot of garbage. McDonald was back on target with 18 and Nixon registered 14. Knowles (12), Pete Koola, a 15-11 record.

The Senators remain undefeated in the Mid-Hudson Conference with Westchester due in Saturday. The Westcotts lost nine of their first 11 and have since won 13 out of 15 for 14. Knowles (12), Pete Koola, a 15-11 record.

Big Pileup At Daytona

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Richard Petty said he just shut his eyes and somehow managed to get through.

Raymond Williams said it was "like a bomb going off."

Veteran drivers struggled to express their thoughts about the massive 12-car pileup Thursday which claimed the life of Raymond "Friday" Hassler during one of the two 125-mile qualifying races for Sunday's Daytona 500.

Gloom spread quickly over the pit area at Daytona International Speedway as word of Hassler's death spread. Some of the drivers had already guessed the worst.

"I just looked at him and turned away," said G. C. Spencer, who was the first driver to reach Hassler's car in the jumbled wreckage on the backstretch of the 2.5-mile speedway.

The accident happened on the 18th lap as the field, tightly bunched following a caution flag, screamed down the long backstretch at 200 miles per hour. David Boggs blew a tire on his Dodge and suddenly debris was flying everywhere.

"It was just like a bomb going off," said Williams. "There were cars in the air and then there was so much smoke you couldn't see." Williams' Plymouth slammed into the wall and he rode the barrier for several hundred feet.

Petty was picking his way through the field following a pit stop when suddenly cars were spinning wildly in front of him. "Somehow a hole just opened," said Petty. "It was as if the two cars in front of me wanted me to make it through. It just wasn't my day to get wiped out."

Petty said he saw Hassler's car down on the inside of the track still spinning. "Then I saw a white car slam into it and parts were flying everywhere. It was a real bad scene."

Hassler, 27-year-old Chattanooga, Tenn., driver, was dead on arrival at the infield hospital. Miraculously, only one other driver was injured in the pileup, Jimmy Crawford of College Park, Ga., received a cut chin and was admitted to the hospital for X-rays.

Racing activity continues today with the Florida Citrus 250 for Grand American cars and the 100-kilometer Inver House challenge race for Formula Super Vees—the open-cockpit Volkswagen powered cars.

Dwight Lamar Warms Up

By United Press International
It was just a matter of time before Dwight Lamar warmed up.

Lamar University had visions of upset in its eyes Thursday night as the Cardinals surged to a 39-26 lead over Southwestern Louisiana, the No. 13 ranked team in the nation. But then Lamar, the nation's leading scorer, began to find the mark.

The 6-foot-1 guard hit six consecutive jump shots from the 25-foot mark as he fired his club to a 52-48 halftime lead and finished with 51 points to lead Southwestern Louisiana to a 119-106 victory. Roy Ebron added 26 points for the Ragin' Cajuns, now 19-2, while Mike

Hughes was high man for Lamar with 30 points.

In other action involving ranked clubs, Long Beach State, No. 8, moved back into the Pacific Coast Athletic Association lead with an 88-51 rout of San Jose and Houston (No. 19) rolled past Centenary 93-82.

Chuck Terry hit a pair of career-highs with 26 points and 13 rebounds as Long Beach routed San Jose. The 49ers roared out to a 20-1 lead and never were in trouble thereafter.

Dwight Davis scored 30 points and pulled down 13 rebounds in Houston's victory. Steve Newdome had 16 points and Dwight Jones added 15 for Houston.

Laver Expects a Letdown

TORONTO (UPI)—Rod Laver is expecting a letdown but he doesn't act like it.

The top-seeded Australian played almost perfect tennis Thursday as he beat Roger Taylor of England 6-4, 6-2 to advance to the semifinals of the $50,000 World Championship Tennis Tourney.

"I'm happy the way I've played the last three weeks," said Laver. "I know there has got to be a letdown, but the later it comes, the better it is. I served a couple of aces in the first set and that's above average for me. Roger made some good shots when I was returning service up, but then I made four or five good return hit shots and he had to get the ball higher."

Tom Okker of Holland, the No. 3 seed, also advanced to the semis by beating veteran Roy Emerson of Australia 7-6, 6-0. Okker said Emerson "played badly. He really fell apart when it was 6-6 and defaulted twice in the third and fourth points of the tiebreaker."

In doubles action, Arthur Ashe of Gum Spring, Va., and Bob Lutz of Los Angeles upset third-seeded Australians Ken Rosewall and Fred Stolle 5-7, 7-6, 6-3 and Frank Froehling of New York and Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico combined to beat Graham Stillwell and Mark Cox of Great Britain 6-4, 7-5.

KHS Goes to Newburgh

KINGSTON
All Kingston High School's basketball team has heard since it beat Newburgh Free Academy on Jan. 21 is that the Goldbacks will be much tougher at home. The Maroons will find out tonight.

KHS, 8-7 on the year, will travel south to face Coach Newburgh without getting a club which is fighting to stay above the .500 mark.

With the exception of guard Ron Smith, top scorer in the Hudson Valley, Newburgh has had little to brag about as the rest of its team has been bogged down by inexperience.

Nonetheless, no one goes to Newburgh without getting a rough welcome and Kingston probably won't be the exception.

In tonight's other game, Coleman visits Marlboro to conclude the Ulster County Athletic League's regular season schedule. Both teams are 7-6 in the Southern Division and the loser will be relegated to the cellar.

Highland Routs Ellies to Grab South

By STEVE KANE

ELLENVILLE — It's all over in the Southern Division, at last, and after trouncing Ellenville, 78-51, here Thursday night, Highland's Big Blue has emerged on top of the heap with an 11-3 record.

To be kind to the Ellies, one would have to admit that they were in the ballgame for about 10 minutes. The Blue Devils were having trouble buying baskets but were still hanging on to the short end of an 18-13 score. John Barrington started things rolling for the visitors with two baskets, then Ron Monroe added another. Then Harold Countryman got into the act, and Perry Monroe as well, and the 10-0 tear pushed the difference to 15 points.

Even on a good night the Ellies would have trouble making up that spread against Highland, and it was just not to be the home team's evening. Highland was up 35-17 at the half and 51-27 after three quarters.

It was the tough Highland performance that had the most to do with the outcome, however. Opposing coach Frank Muller just shook his head and said, "They were amazing."

Asked for an analysis of his team's showing, Dick Becker, the Highland coach, mumbled something about: "When you're hot, you're hot," but he also had a few more tangible points to make.

"The boys kind of wanted revenge this time," he said, "and they weren't about to lay down in the third quarter like they did last time." He was referring to an earlier meeting between the two teams in Highland when the Ellies caught the Big Blue from behind.

The Monroe brothers, Perry and Ron, led the show for the Big Blue. Ron took scoring honors with 29 points and Perry added 19, and the tandem was just devastating off the boards. As a unit the Highlanders played almost impeccable defense and forced numerous Ellenville turnovers which they capitalized on.

Ellenville, a team that runs very well, opened in a zone as Muller was cautious of the Highland size advantage. In the meantime, the Blue was operating a man-to-man like Becker had invented it. When the game started blooming out of hand, the Ellies went to their press, but it did little but provide some exciting moments and award Highland some high percentage shots.

Herm Santiago threw the only scare at Highland of even minimal proportions. After a basket by teammate Steve Henderson, Santiago turned loose and scored six points in as many seconds, but since that only cut the lead to 17 it became a futile gesture.

Dave Goodman gave another effort and paced the Ellie shooters with 15 points. Big man Rick Kaplan got off to a good start with several blocked shots in the first period, but the Monroes refused to get in foul trouble and held him ineffective most of the night.

Among other things, it was probably as good a shooting night as Highland has had all year, and although Becker likes to stress his defense, things were pretty even all the way around for Highland.

"The last time we played them," said Muller, "they were ready. They were sure ready tonight."

It was Muller's team that wasn't ready. The Ellies went two quarters before they had one with a double figure output, and that was just barely, scoring 10 in the third. Nine points in the first and eight in the second was as much a result of cold Ellenville hands as anything else, though they weren't allowed many good shots. Only Goodman in the fourth period drove to the hoop, and his effectiveness was wasted by then. Ellenville's JV's notched their 14th win against a single loss, whipping Highland 58-32 in the preliminary game.

Sawyer Seniors Come of Age

Saugerties High School basketball coach Larry Marcus gave his seniors the ball here Thursday and let them go at it in their last home game. They didn't let him down.

With Rich Koegel leading the way, Saugerties came from behind in the second half to knock off Poughkeepsie, 67-65.

"It was their ballgame to win or lose," Marcus explained referring to the use of only seniors.

For a while it looked like the upperclassmen were going to be in for a long night as the free-lance Poughkeepsie team, which broke the 100 point barrier the other night against Beacon, jumped out to a 16-12 first quarter lead.

The Sawyers caught up a bit by intermission, however they still trailed 34-33 at the buzzer. But when the second half began Saugerties pulled out all the stops.

Hitting on the first seven points of the third quarter, Saugerties was able to maintain a constant lead of between three and seven points the rest of the way. When Poughkeepsie scored the last basket of the game, the final two-point margin represented the closest it came to rallying.

Koegel wound up with a game-high 26 points and 18 rebounds. Craig Wrolsen connected for 12 points while Ray Boan and Steve Thornton had 10 apiece. Tom Whitaker tallied eight and Jim Barbate sank a free throw.

Bill Wright led the Poughkeepsie attack with 23 points. Sy Brown had 16.

Poughkeepsie's JV quintet managed to defeat the little Sawyers in the opener, 82-63, despite Doc Salinovich's 24 points for Saugerties.

The Sawyers are idle until a road game at Roosevelt next Friday which will complete the DCSL season. Then they'll wait with crossed fingers for a possible Section One tournament invitation.

Billie Jean Upset

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—

Unheralded Betty Stove of The Netherlands upset top-seeded

Billie Jean King, 6-3, 7-6, in the semifinal round of the $20,000

Virginia Slims Invitational Tennis

Tournament Thursday.

Stove, who has not progressed beyond the semifinal round of any previous tournament

this year, used powerful drives and a strong backhand to move from a 3-3

tie to the 6-3 victory in the first set.

King, rated No. 1 in the United States and No. 2 in the world, was tied with Stove four times in the second set before it went into the tiebreaker.

Erik Haker Is Confident

BANFF, Alta. (UPI)—Erik Haker, who narrowly missed out on an Olympic gold medal for the giant slalom, appears confident he will win a second World Cup giant slalom event here today.

The 19-year old Norwegian ace carries a .14 second advantage over Roger Rossat-Mignod of France going into the second heat of the men's giant slalom event today in Canada's World Cup ski meet.

Haker flashed down the 41-gate course Thursday in an official time of 1:24.58 to take the first heat. Rossat-Mignod was timed at 1:24.72 followed by Switzerland's Edmond Bruggman at 1:24.90.

Haker already has won one World Cup giant slalom event this year, taking the first event of the season at St. Moritz last December.

He won the first heat of the giant slalom at the Sapporo Games, but fell on the second run and was disqualified.

Gustavo Thoeni, who missed a gate on the first run here Thursday and was disqualified, went on to win the Olympic gold medal.

Haker said he will not repeat the "mistake" he made at Japan in the World Cup event here today.

"When this happened in Sapporo, everyone said it was the pressure because I was young," Haker said. "But it wasn't the pressure at all. It was just a mistake I made. I am not nervous today and there will be no mistakes."

The men's giant slalom course will be set out over a distance of 3,300 feet with a vertical drop of 1,260 feet.

Women's World Cup competition in Canada's only meet also gets underway today with the slalom event.

Barbara Cochran of Richmond, Va., who won the gold medal for the event at Sapporo, is regarded as the favorite here.

Miss Cochran would make no predictions but noted the slalom course here, stretching over a distance of 1,480 feet with a vertical drop of 950 feet, is to her liking.

"The course at Mount Norquay is approximately the same as the one we skied at Sapporo. It is steep, but that's the kind of course I like," she said.

Skiing conditions were far from good Thursday because above freezing temperatures Wednesday almost turned the course into slush. Officials said the main problem was that the snow base was too soft.

Officials were scheduled to work through the night, packing down the 16-inch base. There were fears however, the course would again deteriorate after the first few skiers today.

The weather bureau has forecast light snow flurries in the Banff area for today with young," Haker said. "But it

New Paltz Clinches North Title

NEW PALTZ

Things went just the way

Frank Davis was hoping they would go Thursday.

Not only did Davis' New Paltz

High School basketball team

beat Pine Bush, 70-38, to clinch

the Ulster County Athletic

League's Northern Division

title, but the team he wanted to meet in next week's championship playoff, Highland, also won.

The Huges were able to dispose of Pine Bush without working up much of a sweat.

They knew that second place

Ontora could be eliminated by

Liberty, but New Paltz still wanted to take the clincher on its own.

It did so by opening a 19-10

first quarter lead and extending it to 36-29 at the intermission.

Then the Huges really poured it on, outscoring the visitors 44-19

in the second half.

Rick Pesavento paced the Huges with 19 points. Jay

Ackert hit for 16 and Mike

Fairweather chipped in with 14.

Jim Caputo scored 11 points for Pine Bush.

As for Highland, which beat

Ellenville to win the Southern crown, Davis had said earlier in the week that he'd be happy to meet anyone in the UCL

playoff Feb. 25 at Pine Bush,

but that he'd be especially pleased if it was the Big Blue.

Highland had beaten New

Paltz twice this season, once in a league game when the Huges were at full strength, and once in a tournament when

New Paltz was missing three starters.

So Davis and his charges will get another chance, this time for all the marbles. First,

however, he'll savor the division title for awhile. After all, with Liberty and Ontora rated as favorites before the season began and then deflated by

Liberty Has Rough Time at OCS

BOICEVILLE

Until two of its starters fouled out early in the fourth quarter,

Ontora High School was giving

Liberty a run for its money in their Ulster County Athletic League basketball game here

Thursday. But once the duo left the visitors pulled away and finally recorded a 78-57 decision.

"The game was a lot closer than the score indicates," said

a pleased Ontora Coach Ron Pape. "We had only 11 turnovers and that's below our average. We also forced them out of the press for the second time this season. After the game their coach (Floyd Emery) said we were the only team that has given his team

trouble this season."

How did Pape explain it?

"Well, we've been trying to build a lot of poise in the kids.

They know when they're in trouble to eat the ball and settle for a jump instead of throwing it away."

And that's been why other teams have had their difficulties with Liberty. When the Sullivan

County team had pressed the others had folded. Not Ontora.

Liberty still has the good personnel. Joe Lewis scored 29 points and Ivan Richards added

27 as the Indians beat the Boiceville five. But Ontora did lead early in the second quarter and not many quintets can claim that against Liberty.

What it finally came down to

was Tom Wolf and Pete

Chepeleff reaching five fouls in the fourth quarter. After that the visitors were able to dominate.

"I'm 100 per cent pleased," beamed Pape, although the defeat dropped his team to a second place tie with Rondout

in the final Northern standings.

One reason was the 19 points thrown in by Dan Brown which gave the OCS guard the league's scoring championship.

Second Jumper to Sonics

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle SuperSonics of the National Basketball Association, already enriched by one player who jumped from the rival ABA, apparently are richer still Friday with the addition of another jumper, 7-foot rookie Jim McDaniels.

But a spokesman for the Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association, from whom McDaniels fled, said the team "wouldn't be too surprised" if he remedied the situation. The Cougars took the first legal steps towards that remedy with a suit filed in Los Angeles against an attorney.

The situation also roped in McDaniels' alma mater, Western Kentucky University, which said it had no reason to believe McDaniels signed a pro contract while still playing college basketball.

McDaniels, meanwhile, was to be on the basketball court for the Sonics tonight when they contest Golden State for second place in the NBA Pacific Division. The big center was not expected to play against the Warriors, but player-coach Lenny Wilkens said McDaniels likely would see action Sunday against Portland.

McDaniels, who has been averaging 26.8 points and 14 rebounds a game for the Cougars, declined to outline his reasons for quitting the ABA club.

The Sonics would say only that he signed a six-year pact. No other contract details were announced.

McDaniels joined Spencer Haywood as the second man to jump from the ABA to Seattle. Haywood, an all-star forward, emigrated to Seattle from Denver last year.

The Cougars went to court in Los Angeles, asking $1 million damages and an order stopping Los Angeles attorney Al Ross from allegedly interfering with McDaniels.

The Cougar suit contends the former Western Kentucky star first signed with the ABA club in November 1970. The six-year contract was for $1,357,000 in salary and a $50,000 bonus, with the salary to be paid over 25 years.

The suit also contends McDaniels wanted to renegotiate the contract to spread the salary over 15 years with an additional $50,000 for aggravation. That suit spurred Western Kentucky officials to issue a statement they had no reason to believe McDaniels signed the pro contract while still playing for them.

Chones Signs With Nets

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Jim Chones, 6-foot-11 star center of the second-ranked Marquette Warriors, signed a contract with the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association late Thursday night, it was announced early today.

The announcement was made by the Rev. John P. Raynor, Marquette president in a statement at 1:45 a.m. It read: "Jim Chones telephoned coach Al McGuire late Thursday night informing him that he had just signed a contract to play professional basketball with the New York Nets."

"We at Marquette University wish Jim every success in his new venture. Jim has represented the university well both on and off the court. Although as a professional player Jim will no longer be able to play intercollegiate basketball, he has said he intends to complete his college education. I look forward to presenting Jim his bachelor's degree at a future

Marquette commencement. "As president I personally wish Jim great success and a long professional basketball career."

Chones, averaging 20.6 points and nearly 12 rebounds per game in his junior year, has led the Warriors to a 21-0 record. He has frequently been discussed as the best big man in college basketball by pro scouts and basketball writers.

Lately he has frequently expressed dissatisfaction with college basketball because it hasn't allowed him to realize his full potential.

The signing apparently took place in Milwaukee but it was not immediately known from where Chones had called McGuire.

Chones received acclaim after his sophomore year last season and was drafted by the Virginia Squires of the ABA but at that time the Racine, Wis., native said he was not interested in turning professional.

"I was never contacted by the Virginia Squires or any other pro basketball team, nor was I contacted by any league official from either the NBA or ABA," he said last May 4.

Chones, who with Dean Meminger, now with the New York Knicks of the NBA, led the Warriors to an undefeated regular season last year, was one of the most sought-after high school players ever to play in Wisconsin when he graduated from St. Catherine high school in Racine.

His high school team was unbeaten his senior year and won the state independent school championship. Chones was named to the high school All-America team.

The 225-pound, 21-year old Chones was the starting center for the United States in the Pan-American games last summer.

Chones, oldest of six children, chose Marquette because he wanted to play for McGuire and because he would be able to remain close to home. His father died when he was a freshman at Marquette and he helped support his family.

When McGuire recruited Chones, he said he could think of "only a few men his size who had such mobility—Lew Alcindor was one and Bill Russell was another."

Rangers Top Kings

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—The Los Angeles Kings made the mistake of spotting the New York Rangers a three-goal lead in the first period Thursday night and as a result went down to a 6-4 defeat.

"This New York club is so strong it can play in spurts and we couldn't afford to spot them those goals," mourned Kings coach Fred Glover. "We were getting the chances but we just couldn't seem to come up with the scores."

"But at least our guys didn't die after it was 5-1."

New York's vaunted goal-line of Jean Ratelle, Rod Gilbert and Vic Hadfield did most of the damage and the trio now has 113 goals and 264 points.

Ratelle, the Rangers' leading scorer, had a goal and two assists in the opening period as did linemate Gilbert. Ratelle is now two points behind Boston's Phil Esposito who has 97 points.

Ratelle's two assists put him one ahead of Andy Bathgate's old mark of 56 set in 1961-62 and his 40th goal tied the mark of Bathgate set in 1958-59.

For the Kings it was their sixth straight defeat and the Rangers completed a season series sweep. New York has not lost to Los Angeles in 14 meetings dating back to Jan. 28, 1970. "Ratelle always has been one of the most underrated men in the league," said Rangers coach Emile Francis.

"The reason he is doing so well this year is that he has been healthy all the way. "In past years either Gilbert or Ratelle missed complete seasons because of back operations."

The high-scoring line is now

72 points short of the NHL record for a line set by Esposito, Ken Hodge and Wayne Cashman for Boston. New York has 21 games left.

For Los Angeles Bob Berry scored first but 28 seconds later Hadfield hit the net and the Rangers went on to score five straight goals. After Hadfield tallied the first two, Ratelle scored his 40th and Gilbert hit his 37th. The other New York goals were by Bill Fairbairn in the second period and Brad Park in the third.

Los Angeles made its comeback after Juha Widing tallied to open the third period and goals followed by Serge Bernier and Ralph Backstrom.

The Kings get a day's rest and then take on the Vancouver Canucks Saturday night.

Elsewhere in the NHL, Phil Esposito scored a three-goal hat trick and assisted on another goal to lead the Boston Bruins to a 4-1 victory over the Philadelphia Flyers. The four points gave Esposito, the NHL leader, 99 points for the season.

Amazing: Knicks Win Over Bulls

The only way to describe the New York Knicks performance Thursday night is "amazing."

New York has had the amazing Mets and the amazing Jets, but for sheer amazement you must consider the Knicks' recovery from a 23-point third-period deficit to defeat the Chicago Bulls, 102-99, in overtime.

Chicago led, 71-48, in the third quarter and was ahead by 13 points entering the fourth period at 79-66. The Knicks then put on a patented rally to tie the game in regulation time at 90-all and win it in overtime.

New York scored the first six points in overtime, but the tenacious Bulls moved back to trail, 100-99, with 16 seconds left. A last attempt for Chicago to catch up failed when Bob Weiss was wide of the basket with an off balance shot. Dick Barnett added two free throws for New York in the final second of play.

Walt Frazier led New York with 22 points, Earl Monroe scored 20 and Dave DeBusschere netted 19 for the Knicks. Chet Walker hit a game-high 28 for the Bulls.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar pushed Milwaukee to a 61-46 intermission lead with a 20-point outburst and finished the game with 34 points as the Bucks routed the Cincinnati Royals, 111-97, in the only other NBA action. Nate Archibald provided Cincinnati's scoring punch with 30 points and seven assists.

Youth in Government Day ... Many Problems Discussed

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

The concerns of most young people today—marijuana, pollution, the penal system and the underprivileged among others—all came to the fore Thursday night when the second annual Ulster County Youth-in-Government representatives conducted a mock legislative session in the County Office Building.

After more than two hours of debate and action on issues, the students were still clamoring for more time to speak, more meetings to be held and for future expansion of the highly successful program for junior and senior high school students.

A two to one vote of the more than 30 members in attendance opposed a resolution advanced by Robert Tirsch, majority leader of the Students for Democratic Action Party, which asked that state legislators be advised that the youth group favors ending penalties for possession of the drug.

Tirsch quoted a recent news article stating that intensive governmental studies have uncovered no detrimental effects caused by marijuana.

Taking issue with his stand was Frank Eberhardt, minority leader of the Freedom Party, who said he never heard of the study and suggested that the matter be forwarded to the Ulster County Drug Commission for its consideration.

Todd Grosshans of the SDA also took issue with the language of the resolution and Tirsch's interpretation of the government report.

Marc Conklin of SDA and Rosemarie Calderone of the Freedom Party told of numerous news and magazine articles which cited views in opposition to Tirsch's quoting of the government report.

Tirsch maintained that his source was unimpeachable. Four resolutions advanced showed concern for pollution with one requesting that the proposed Newburgh Jetport project be dissolved, passing unanimously.

Because such a vote is not within the province of the Ulster County Legislature due to the fact that Newburgh is in Orange County, S. Robert Kelder, adult advisor to the Youth-in-Government program and a county legislator representing Dist. 2, advised that the students vote their sentiments instead and "suggest" the dissolution of the Jetport instead.

The young lawmakers also successfully voted to agree to ban any new businesses in the county which would in any way contribute to pollution.

They also expressed concern for the use of phosphates and asked that Ulster County follow the lead of Suffolk County in banning the sale of all such detergents. It was also suggested that a committee be formed to look into the matter.

"Snowmobiles are destructive and hazardous," said Ann Baker of the SDA after a resolution was introduced calling for the banning of snowmobiles and motorcycles from a recently county-purchased railroad bed. She told of the destruction wrought by the vehicles to such things as plants and field mice and said they would ruin the area for warm weather activities.

Chairman of the mock legislature, Robert Kirkpatrick, of the Freedom Party cited snowmobile safety statistics quoted by dealers saying that if any vehicle is used dangerously it becomes dangerous. Patricia Lyons asked if the question before the legislature was danger to the environment or danger to persons? The resolution passed easily.

Bi-monthly meetings of the Youth-in-Government participants and members of the County Legislature was proposed and approved and another measure calling for limiting the program to high school students to the exclusion of junior high school pupils failed to reach a vote due to a time limit on the meeting.

A subject under consideration by the real Legislature also came before the youth group—that of the possible sharing of Ulster County Community College facilities with BOCES. Patricia Murphy of the SDA favored the plan saying it would save money.

Still another measure, stated that the BOCES program "is inadequate and does not yield the proper economic results" and it proposed that a vocational high school be established in the county.

Grosshans asked why people feel BOCES is inadequate? and Kirkpatrick suggested that the cost of a vocational school would be prohibitive. The present BOCES facility now is essentially a vocational high school, he concluded.

The young legislators voted 24-7 in favor of the shared space proposal and 22-9 against the vocational high school.

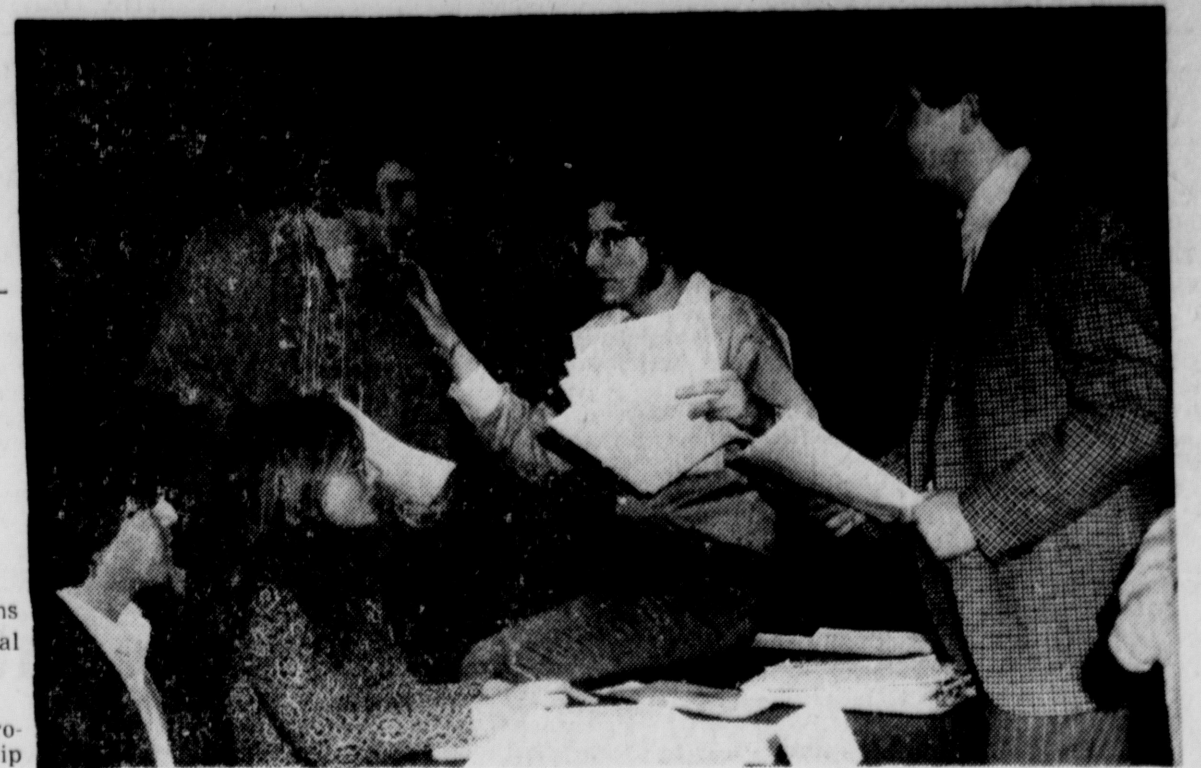

A resolution calling for more recreational facilities was withdrawn, another allowing county prisoners to work on public projects in lieu of confinement was tabled and still another allowing vocational and educational services for county jail inmates was passed.

Additional money in the 1973 Ulster County budget for the Community Action Committee in the amount of $50,000 was approved. The program would include hot lunches for the elderly, a lay counseling service and an extensive transportation network.

Frank Bailey and Mary Ann Forgy sought the establishment of a commission to study what to do about such individual things as zoning?

The measure passed 21-8. The Youth-in-Government program is under the sponsorship of the Legislature's Recreation and Youth Committee of which Kelder is chairman. Many Legislators attended the mock session to get the students' view of matters now before the board.

Ruling Favors Renaissance Group

By WADE BURKHART

Residents of the Renaissance Project in Ellenville have won the right to attend classes in the Ellenville Central School District by a decision of the New York Education Department made public Wednesday. The ruling is dated Feb. 14.

In ruling on the Matter of the Renaissance Project Inc., Gordon M. Ambach, acting commissioner of education, said Renaissance residents, though not technically residents of the district, could attend district schools on a tuition basis, with the tuition to be paid by the residents' public welfare districts or their home school districts.

Ellenville Superintendent of Schools Thomas J. Hayden said he and the district would abide by the decision.

Hayden said Renaissance students would have to have their tuition ready when they entered the school. If they didn't, said Hayden, they would be given a "reasonable amount of time" to get it and then they would be excluded, just like any other tuition paying student.

Tuition in the Ellenville district is about $840.

The appeal to the Education Department was brought by Renaissance on behalf of Richard Leak. The case was argued before Ambach March 30, 1970.

Renaissance officials could not be reached Thursday to determine how many Renaissance residents would take advantage of the ruling, and if Leak was still a Renaissance resident.

Representing Renaissance at the hearing was New Rochelle attorney Sephen Schoeman, and representing the Ellenville law firm of Lonstein and Stapleton.

The district claimed there had been no formal application. Renaissance was not the proper entity to make the appeal, and Leak was not a resident of the district.

Renaissance claimed Leak was a resident, it was the proper entity to make the appeal. Leak had been denied entry to the school, and Leak was resident of the district and entitled to attend the district's schools tuition free.

Ambach ruled Renaissance was the proper one to make the appeal, the bringing of the appeal was enough of an application to forget about the issue of formal application. Leak had been denied entry, and was not a resident but could attend with his tuition paid by his welfare district or local school system.

Planning Board Making Study In Rochester

TOWN OF ROCHESTER

The Town of Rochester Planning Board has undertaken a study of use restrictions in the present zoning ordinances.

The study was begun following frequent requests recently for zoning change approvals or special use permits. It was noted that a number of residents have stated that they feel the restrictions are too stringent.

The Planning Board is currently studying between 30 and 40 categories in the zoning laws in an attempt to find areas where restrictions may be lessened.

Racial Violence Closes Schools

STATESVILLE, N.C. (UPI)—Thursday night, Hiatt said. He was reported in satisfactory condition. Two other white students were treated and released at Irredell Memorial Hospital for cuts and bruises. Hiatt said at least six white students were injured. Classes were called off at Statesville today as well as at Bear Creek in Chatham County and Jones Senior High in Trenton, near the coast. Black students unhappy over the selection of a white Valentine queen staged a sit-down in the hallways at Chatham Central High Thursday. The demonstration was peaceful, but officials decided to take extra precautions by calling off classes today. A group of about 80 to 100 blacks angered by the dismissal of a black teacher caused about $2,000 worth of damage at Trenton High School Wednesday. Thursday was the second day of racial fighting at Statesville Senior High. School officials said the original outbreak Wednesday was triggered after a bus driver refused to permit a black girl to board because she allegedly had used abusive language. Thursday night Statesville Mayor Frank Quis went on radio and blamed the troubles on "outside agitators" and warned, "They better stay away."

"I promise that I will use all available resources, including federal troops, to quell racial incidents in our city," Quis said.

UCCC Teachers File Grievance With County

KINGSTON Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature, said today that he has received the grievance filed by the Faculty Association of Ulster County Community College regarding the controversial sabbatical issue denied by the college's Board of Trustees. Savago said he will turn the grievance over to County Attorney Abram F. Molyneux for study before taking action of his own. Savago said he will shortly take steps to begin legislative hearings on the grievance. The Faculty Association met in regular session Thursday night, and discussed the sabbatical issue. Contract Is Awarded For Route 213 Work ALBANY awarded this year by the New York State Transportation Department. Only two highway construction contracts will be awarded this year by the New York State Transportation Department. Albany announced Thursday that Callanan Industries, Inc. of South Bethlehem has been awarded a contract for $81,359 for repair work on the section of road that has shown signs of settling. Bell said he expects repair work to begin in April. Anticipated completion date is November. The road has already been closed to heavy traffic, and is restricted to all motorists. Bell said that the Department of Transportation will award only one other contract this year for highway work: that to repair the West Gateway Bridge in Schenectady. Both the Schenectady bridge and the Town of Esopus road have been designated as priority items. Ten bids were opened in Albany Thursday. The Callanan bid was apparently the lowest.

Death Penalty Unconstitutional Is Court Ruling

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) The California Supreme Court has ruled that the death penalty is unconstitutional, one of the court's seven jurists said today. The decision affects 100 men and five women under sentence of death in the state's prisons. They include Sirhan B. Sirhan, convicted slayer of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Charles Manson, convicted in the Sharon Tate murders. Several states have outlawed the death penalty through legislative action, but no state supreme court has ruled on it previously. On Nov. 18, 1968, the California high court ruled that juries in the state can decide constitutionally under their own discretion whether the punishment for murder shall be death or life imprisonment. That decision was returned on an appeal which had stayed all executions since Nov. 14, 1967.

Holiday Closings Listed

KINGSTON
Washington's Birthday weekend will be observed through Monday with a number of business and government offices closed for the legal holiday.

One place normally closed on Mondays will be open for the holiday however. Both the Senate House and Senate House Museum will be open to visitors on Monday. School children will have an opportunity to tour the historic buildings and displays as it is a holiday for them also.

Ulster County schools will have a dual holiday celebration — today for Lincoln's Birthday and Monday for Washington's Birthday. Only Kingston City Schools Consolidated will have just Monday as a holiday. However, Kingston schools get an additional holiday in March for Sojourner Truth's birthday.

The Kingston Post office and its stations will be closed Monday. There will be no city delivery or rural service on this date. The Main Post Office lobby will be open from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. and the Uptown Station lobby will be open from 8 to 10 a.m. for the convenience of box holders. Regular holiday collections will be made and all specials will be delivered.

City hall and the Ulster County Office Building will be closed Monday in observance of the national legal holiday. The Kingston Social Security Office will be closed all day Monday. Regular hours are Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. with the exception of national holidays.

All Ulster County Community Action offices including administrative office, Neighborhood Service Centers in Ellenville, Saugerties, Rosendale, Rondout, Highland and Walkkill and Headstart Day Care Centers in Kingston, Woodstock and Ellenville will be closed Monday in observance of Washington's Birthday.

All Kingston banks with the exception of Rondout National Bank will close 3 p.m. Friday and remain closed all day Monday. Rondout National Bank and its branches will maintain evening hours Friday and close Monday.

Refuse collections in the City of Kingston will be one day late under a revised holiday schedule. The landfill area will be closed Monday but will be open the following Saturday, Feb. 26. There will be no collections on Monday.

The Town of Hurley sanitary landfill will be open Monday despite the holiday. Supervisor George Schroeder said the landfill will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday.

There will be no refuse pickup by the Woodstock Sanitation Service on Monday. All customers who are picked up on Monday and Thursday will be picked up Thursday only this week. All customers who are picked up once a week on Monday will be picked up Tuesday, Feb. 22.

Vols Submit Tax Resolution

KINGSTON

The Mt. Marion-Ruby Fire Co., Inc. submitted a resolution at the recent meeting of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association asking that real property tax exemptions be given to volunteer firemen serving towns as well as villages.

At present, village volunteer firemen are granted a $500 exemption on the assessed value of property they own. The resolution submitted at the meeting requests that exemptions also be awarded to volunteer firemen in townships across New York State.

The resolution was approved by the membership and will now be forwarded to the Regional Volunteer Firemen's Association for study.

It was noted that a bill has been introduced in the State Senate that would increase the exemptions from $500 to $1,000.

In other matters discussed at the meeting, it was noted that 34 fire companies have indicated they will participate in the annual convention parade in Ellenville in July. Also participating will be 20 musical units and 17 ladies auxiliaries. More entries are expected before the convention begins. Pioneer Engine Co. of Ellenville will host this year's convention. Richard Murden is its general chairman.

Among those attending the meeting were Andy Pomarico, president of the Hudson Valley Fireman's Association; secretary Colin Jackson and Director William Wooten and Cecil Seymour of the Newburgh Fire Department. They were joined by 135 members of the local association, representing 37 fire companies. They were guests of the A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Co. Ulster Hose Co. No. 5 will host the March 21 meeting. All association meetings begin at 8 p.m.

Bulletin Series Initiated For Village Celebration

The first in a series of informative bulletins to the residents of the Village of Tivoli has been produced, urging them to take part in what promises to be a massive production the weekend of June 9, 10, and 11.

Some of the needs of the committee listed are: old pictures, posters, mementos, and similar memorabilia suitable for photographic display in the ad hoc museum.

And a slogan or jingle reflecting Tivoli's history and hopes.

Among suggested activities already termed "beyond the drawing board stage" are: a Miss Tivoli Beauty Contest open to all resident young women ages 13 to 18. Those interested should contact Margaret Fisher.

A dance with appropriate music for all those interested and able.

A children's art show, with Margaret Tieger heading up the selection committee and display.

A large parade with visiting firemen and Legionnaires, junior bugle bands, scouts and others organized under the leadership of Harold Lasher, Charles Coon, Herbert Mead, and Richard Diehrich.

An outdoor camping display by the Boy Scouts under the guidance of Scoutmaster Peter Disbrow.

A tour of some of Tivoli's fine old homes, being planned by Ethel Block.

A country auction which is "certain to empty some attics and garages and delight antique buffs with modest resources."

A raffle with color TV first prize and lawn mower and camping set as second and third prizes.

On the drawing board are possible pony rides; centennial brochure with history, illustrations, maps, calendar of events, and ads; food booths by several local cooks; a dog show and obedience school lesson by a dog breeder; imprinted balloons, banners, vests, hats, and mugs with centennial dates; beer concessions by firemen and the Legion post; a small carnival for children, under investigation by Mayor Mortimer Appel; and some solicitation of large food and beverage companies for contributions.

Rhinebeck Teachers To Gain Pay Difference

RHINEBECK It was noted at this week's Rhinebeck Board of Education meeting that teaching and certain other 10-month personnel will receive their pay difference retroactively to Nov. 15, 1971.

This amount will be the difference between the old contract and the new contract adopted last summer. The wage differences during the 90-day wage-price freeze, naturally, will not be forthcoming.

The Board approved a resolution authorizing architects Dodge and Chamberlin to set up installation of a fire alarm system for the Bulkley Elementary School to meet with legal and New York State requirements. It is to be integrated into the Rhinebeck Fire Department's system.

A bid was awarded to Novelty Scenic Studios, New York, for auditorium draperies. The bid of $1,549 was low of three.

Lewis Priven assumed his seat on the Board for the first time following his election Feb. 9 to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of James Kelly.

The board read a letter from Mayor Peter F. Sipperley concerning the use of district facilities for the joint village-town recreation program. The Recreation Commission originally wanted to restrict the use of the program to those children residing in the town, but school officials said they would withdraw the use of school facilities unless all district children could attend. This is now the case.

Dutchess County BOCES will present a program, open to the public, at Chancellor Livingston School, 7:30 p.m. March 21 explaining what BOCES offers school children.

Union Hose Tabs Officers

KINGSTON Officers for the coming year were elected at the recent annual meeting of Union Hose Fire Company No. 4.

Ronald Matthews was elected president; Edward

Bruck, vice-president and Larry

Bigando, captain. Paul

Saulpaugh was named first

lieutenant and Frank Dart,

second lieutenant. Daniel

Markert will serve as secretary;

Peter Kearny, treasurer and Donald Matthews, custodian.

Robert Matthews was named honorary vice president.

The year end report of last year's captain noted 59 alarms of fires; seven training sessions and 18 stand by operations during bad weather or special events.

Action Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of Ulster County Community Action Committee Inc. will be held Tuesday 8 p.m. at the Ronodut Neighborhood Service Center, Broadway and Spring Street.

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

THE LUCK OF THE IRISH

is a historical phrase which seems to have run into some foul weather in that other (and less happy) Ulster, across the sea... a misfortune affair that I hope will be settled swiftly and with honor to all. But over here, in our happier Ulster, we're looking forward to March 17, and especially to a repeat of the ST. PATRICK'S DAY SHINDIG that was such a huge success last year at Roberto's.

Everything will be the same: The same date, March 17... the special menu plus the "SHAM-ROCK SPECIAL" (Corned Beef and Cabbage). There will be Mark Garrison and Tommy Fitzgerald, with their sing-along and dance music.

There will be the Hats, Horns and Novelties "On The House"; Dinner will be served from 5 p.m., as usual, and dancing from Nine until... There will be no raise in regular menu prices; children will be welcome. And if you can't make it for Dinner, there will be OPEN HOUSE all evening in the COCKTAIL LOUNGE, where I wouldn't be at all surprised to find Ed Shannon and Dan Callaghan and other Hibernian cronies making the welkin ring with Irish songs.

A lot of last year's guests already have made their reservations; start planning now to be with us on March 17th.

is getting lovelier and lovelier at Roberto's... from our standpoint, we mean. Every day a few more folks find out about the extra pleasures of LUNCHEON ON LEGION COURT! To start with, there's the smart atmosphere, the comfort, the elbow room for a quiet cocktail and conversation, the picture-windowed view of the Hudson, the pleasant service, and above all, the incomparable cuisine.

And the last shall be first: I say without fear of successful contradiction that nowhere around here can you find such fine food in such a modestly priced menu... a standard listing of a dozen favorites, from $1.75 to $3.00, plus Roberto's daily different Specialties, which we can't print in advance because he never

PSC Delays
Gas Rate Hike

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—The Public Service Commission Thursday delayed implementation of a $1 million rate hike by Columbia Gas of New York Inc. until after public hearings are held.

The hike was to have commenced March 1. Hearings were scheduled to begin March 23 in the Broome County Office Building in Binghamton.

Columbia Gas provides service to about 63,500 customers in and around the cities of Binghamton and Olean.

Environment Kiwanis Topic

KINGSTON Do you have the concern and are you willing, were two questions placed before the members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club by Mrs. Shirley Kobran, director of the Ulster County Environmental Task Force, during a talk concerning the local environment.

Help in the preservation of natural resources is apparently coming from women and teenagers locally, and Mrs. Kobran challenged her audience with the idea that she was speaking before a group of men which brought forward the idea of the manpower—sadly needed in the current collections of paper, bottles, and waste materials.

Mrs. Kobran praised the National Guard for its help in the collection of materials, referred to a statistic which showed the preservation of 850 trees as a result of a local collection, and emphasized that the need to eliminate forms of pollution was as current as the next generation.

The idea of becoming concerned with conditions and then being willing to give of your time and energy to help correct these conditions was the basis of the message brought to the civic club by the speaker.

New Barnum City Hotel... A Florida Attraction

By DAVID L. LANGFORD
ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—It's not a parody of a hotel with lousy service but pretty soon you'll be handing your bags to a clown, check in with a ring master and watch a real carousel spin in the lobby.

The 400-room hotel is just one aspect of a new central Florida attraction — "Barnum City" — which may even steal some of the show from nearby Disney World which has held the center ring in this area's boom.

attraction — "Barnum City" — Bailey Circus Thursday announced plans for the world's largest circus and museum, hotel, outdoor coliseum for chariot races, and an "aquacircus," for a tract of land in Polk County between Orlando and Lakeland, Fla.

The $50 million project will be seen from miles away to even the most casual onlooker. The virtually-flat central Florida landscape will be broken by a 16-story elephant.

Yes, a gigantic elephant with a bank of elevators carrying tourists to a howdah (rider's platform) and an observation deck.

Construction for the Barnum City, about 10 miles south of Disney World, is expected to begin this fall and completion is projected for 1975.

Gov. Reubin Askew was among the dignitaries on hand for the announcement of the project Thursday. "One of our most cherished traditions, the traveling circus, will be perpetuated through this development," he said.

The first permanent home for the circus will employ more than 4,000 workers, and allow a large resident circus to perform year-round while other companies of Ringling Brothers tour the nation.

Askew said the state already is planning on expanding the nearby area to cope with the 5 million visitors forecast yearly for Barnum City, not to mention the frequent traffic jams already caused by Disney World.

The complex will include 12 separate entertainment areas and a restaurant inside the giant pachyderm.

WHY WE SAY

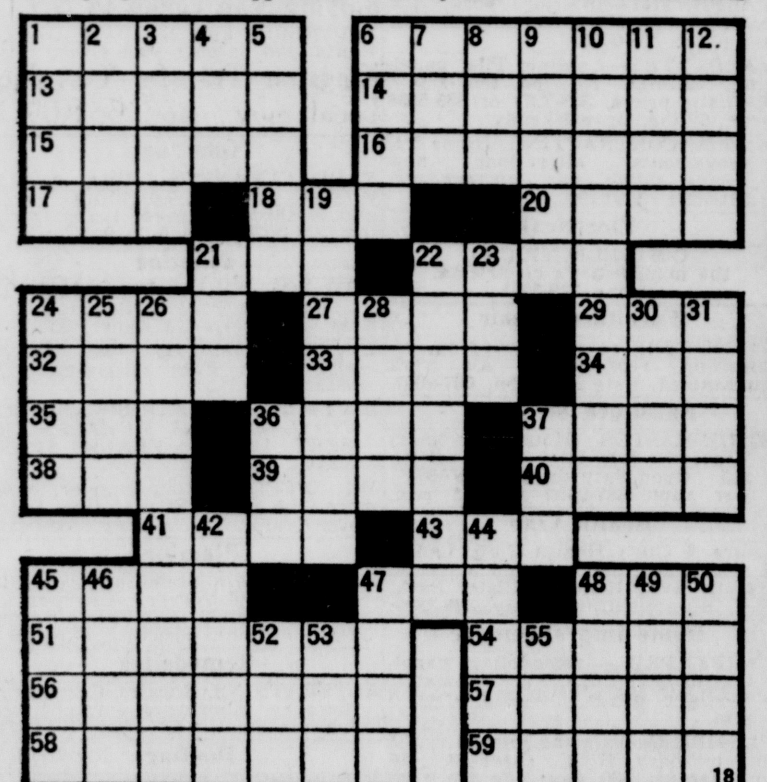

MOTHER GOOSE

GRANDMOTHER: According to many authorities, the original Mother Goose was Elizabeth Foster, an Englishwoman born in 1655. She married Isaac Goose in 1692 and a few years later became "Mother Goose." Mrs. Goose is said to have written the stories for her grandchildren.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

VISITORS: (Q.) This boy comes from out of town and when he is here he stays at my friend's house. My friend brings him over to my house. Over a period of time I have started liking him.

But when he comes in he is usually dressed up and I feel funny in my worn-out jeans and shirt. I have to do housework and I can't do it in my best clothes. If I knew when they are coming I would get changed. What should I do?—Interested in Oregon.

(A.) Just be friendly and natural. When a boy or boys drop in unexpectedly, do not worry about or apologize for what you are wearing, so long as it is clean and decent.

CURFEW: (Q.) My mother insists that I must be in at 12:30 on Saturday night. I stayed out at a party one Saturday night until 1:30 and was punished. When I go to a party she has to have the address and telephone number. She also has to be sure there is a chaperone there.

What should I do? Stop going to parties?—15-Year-Old in Florida.

(A.) No. All the conditions your mother has set are reasonable for a 15-year-old girl. You should accept them and recognize that they are for your benefit as well as that of your parents.

DEMONSTRATING MINERS — Demonstrating miners, demanding to see their M.P.'s, try to push down barriers at Houses of Parliament in London, England, as police try to maintain order. Eventually at least 500 miners were allowed in. Later Prime Minister Edward Heath eked out a parlia-

Pay Increases Offered Britain's Coal Miners

LONDON AP) — The coal strike inquiry board today offered Britain's 280,000 striking coal miners pay increases which went far toward meeting their demands.

Leaders of the national Union of Mineworkers went into a huddle to consider whether to accept the offer and end the six-week-old strike that threatens to paralyze British industry by the end of the month.

The miners' employers, the National Coal Board, immediately accepted the settlement terms proposed by the three-man commission headed by Lord Wilberforce, a former High Court judge.

The tribunal recommended increases ranging from $11.70 to $15.60 a week. The miners, whose pay varies between $49.40 and $74.10, had demanded $15.60, while the coal board offered $7.80.

The inquiry board said it was offering considerably more than the board offered because this was "in the interests of the nation as a whole."

It recommended that the raises be retroactive to Nov. 1 and that the scale prevail for 16 months from then.

The government warned, meanwhile, that drastic new power cuts will hit homes and factories next Wednesday whatever the miners decide.

Officials said the worst blackouts since the World War II Blitz would probably last only a short time if the miners go back to work next week. But this seemed unlikely. If the strike leaders recommend acceptance of the offer, the miners probably will vote on it in a secret ballot, and this could take a week.

Dwindling coal stocks have forced electric generating plants to ration output and withhold power from homes for up to 12 hours a day. Most factories are on a three-day week, sending the nation's total unemployed above 2.5 million.

Even with the new restrictions next Wednesday, Industry Minister John Davies said, the power stations would be down to their last stocks of coal by the end of next week and will be able to maintain supplies only for such essential services as hospitals and sewage plants. By then 5 million of the nation's 20 million workers could be idle.

Sniper Fire in Belfast Suburb

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Snipers opened fire four times during the night on an army post in Newtownabbey, a Belfast suburb normally untouched by violence, the army said today.

In Dublin, political sources move to re-establish military courts to hear civil political cases in Ireland.

In earlier violence in Belfast, Sinn Fein, the political arm of the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA), could be the first step in a possible government

'Most Wanted' Fugitive to Fight Extradition

TORONTO (UPI)—Karlton Lewis Armstrong will fight all efforts to have him returned to the United States where he was listed on the FBI's 10 Most Wanted List for murder and bombing at the University of Wisconsin, his attorney said today.

Armstrong, 25, was arrested Wednesday in an east-end rooming house by two Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers. He surrendered peacefully and was alone at the time, the RCMP said Thursday.

Authorities are still seeking three other persons charged with the Aug. 24, 1970, bombing of the University's Sterling Hall in Madison, which caused $6 million damage and killed one person.

The three fugitives were Armstrong's 20-year old brother, Dwight, David S. Fine, 19, and Leo F. Burt, 23. RCMP officials said Fine and Burt were seen in Peterborough, Ont., on Sept. 3, 1970 and may still be in Canada.

Armstrong's lawyer, Paul Copeland, said he expects an immigration inquiry, which could decide whether Armstrong will be deported to the United States, to begin sometime next week.

Copeland said he had contacted immigration officials in Toronto and was told that they needed time to study the case. The attorney said Armstrong will fight any subsequent deportation order.

Wisconsin Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, state Attorney General Nicholas and Madison Police Chief Wilbur Emery sent a joint telegram to U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Attorney General John N. Mitchell asking immediate action to extradite Armstrong.

The University of Wisconsin has offered a $100,000 reward for information leading to the conviction of the person or persons responsible for the bombing which killed Robert Fasnacht, 33. Fasnacht was working in the building when the bomb went off at 3:45 a.m.

"A provisional warrant of apprehension of the Wisconsin charges is in the hands of Canadian authorities in Toronto. They await request of U.S. federal governor to execute warrant. We most strongly urge that you recommend both extradition and deportation proceedings be commenced forthwith to insure the defendant's return to Wisconsin to face charges," the telegram read.

RCMP officials said Armstrong's arrest followed "intensive investigation based on information received in Canada as to his whereabouts." They said the information came from non police sources.

The Armstrong brothers were stopped for a motor vehicle violation at Little Falls, N.Y., Sept. 3, 1970. The pair was questioned by police and released after a routine plate check failed to disclose immediately that they were driving a car stolen earlier in the New York City area.

Authorities in Little Falls failed to recognize the suspects' names from news reports and FBI "wanted" flyers had not yet arrived in the mail.

A police spokesman said the bomb, planted in a parked car, apparently was intended to kill a policeman. He said they received an anonymous warning of a bomb on Chichester Street "but we had no chance to clear the street before it went off."

The blast blew a policeman across the street but did not hurt him. In addition to Miss Anderson, two other girl passersby were slightly injured.

An army spokesman said no one was hurt in the Newtownabbey shooting incidents and expressed some surprise that there had been activity there in a night otherwise free from violence.

"We haven't had any problems in Newtownabbey in some time," he said.

The four men arrested in Dublin were charged with being members of the IRA itself. Political sources said the move apparently stemmed from the dropping of arms charges Wednesday against seven men, including Anthony "Dutch" Doherty and Martin Meehan. The two men are self-professed leaders of the provisional wing of the IRA, which advocates the forceful unification of British-governed Northern Ireland with the Irish Republic.

Irish Premier Jack Lynch ordered the arrest of the seven but a civil court judge dropped the charges for lack of evidence.

Political sources said Lynch was upset by their acquittal and may have ordered the Thursday arrests as a test case.

The sources said if the four, including John McGirl, a former member of the Irish parliament, were acquitted, Lynch might well call for the re-establishment of military courts in the republic to hear political cases.

House Votes an Extension For Antipoverty Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, ignoring threats of another presidential veto, has passed a two-year, $5.3-billion extension of the antipoverty program.

President Nixon vetoed a similar bill last December, and the House went only part way to meet his objections. Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., who led the opposition to the bill Thursday, said another veto is certain.

The bill, passed 234 to 127, now goes to the Senate, which also has shown little inclination to back down from the earlier version of the legislation.

The main concession by the House to Nixon's views was elimination of a costly new child-development program it had included in the previous bill.

However, as a substitute the House proposed a big increase in funds for Head Start, which provides educational, nutritional and health services for poor children. The bill would authorize $500 million for the program this year instead of the $376 million so far appropriated.

instead of the $394 million Nixon has budgeted.

Republicans, who failed in an attempt to cut back to the budget levels, said the House was holding out false promises to the poor by authorizing a sum that will never be appropriated or spent.

The House largely ignored Nixon's other main objection to the previous bill, which dealt with a provision setting up a private, nonprofit corporation

Red Translator Is Indicted

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted Soviet translator Valery Ivanovich Markelev on charges of espionage in obtaining plans for a new Navy fighter plane and acting as an illegal Soviet agent here.

Markelev, 32, a Soviet citizen employed as a translator at the United Nations, was named in a two-count indictment returned Thursday in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn.

He was arrested by FBI agents Monday and later freed on $100,000 bond supplied by the Soviet consul. Although restricted to the New York metropolitan area, Markelev may, on notice to the U.S. attorney, seek permission to confer with Soviet Embassy officials in Washington.

Markelev was charged with obtaining documents connected with the national defense and relating to the design of the Grumman F14A aircraft for the benefit of the Soviet Union.

The second count alleged that Markelev acted as an agent of the Soviet government in this country without notifying the secretary of state, as required of individuals who are not diplomatic or consular officers or attaches.

The maximum penalty on the first count is 10 years in prison and $10,000 fine, and on the second count, 10 years and a $5,000 fine.

The FBI said Markelev had been under surveillance for more than a year. He was arrested in Patchogue, N.Y., Monday night during a purported rendezvous with a Grumman Aerospace Corp. engineer who had been cooperating with the FBI.

The Soviet translator had worked at the U.N. nearly five years, while living here with his wife and 11-year-old daughter.

U.S. Woman Diplomat Charged With Espionage

CAIRO (UPI)—A U.S. woman diplomat was arrested in Egypt last September on espionage charges, a close aide to President Anwar Sadat said today.

Mohammed Hassanein Heikal said the unidentified woman was "caught red handed" trying to find information about the new Soviet planes in Egypt.

Appeal Made

An appeal has been made for household furnishings for the Everett Banks family of Connelly who were burned out of their home Feb. 6. All possessions were lost in the fire. Clothing has been donated but a desperate need continues for all household furniture and furnishings such as blankets, linens and dishes as well as for household appliances. Articles are being collected at Fatum's Ambulance, 27 Clinton Avenue, Kingston.

Heikal, the editor of the semi-official Al Ahran newspaper, made the disclosure in his regular weekly column.

In a separate story, Al Ahran said Foreign Minister Murad Ghalib has told the nation's political bosses war with Israel is inevitable and that Israel would withdraw from occupied Arab lands only after blood had been shed on its own territory.

Heikal said the woman's arrest created a serious incident with Washington which threatened to discontinue Middle East political efforts. He indicated the United States later admitted the woman was guilty of trying to gather data on the Soviet MIG23 warplanes. The woman, who was released, acted as a liaison with an Egyptian agent for the Central Intelligence Agency, Heikal said.

His article followed remarks by Sadat Thursday that two Belgians and a Frenchman were arrested in Cairo recently and accused of being Israeli agents.

The president said the three had mailed thousands of anti-Soviet and anti-Egyptian leaflets in Cairo and attempted to exploit the recent student disturbances to "split the home front."

Heikal said the woman was part of a "gigantic espionage case" which Egyptian authorities investigated.

In the same article Heikal called for the rejection of the American-sponsored indirect peace talks with Israel at a time when U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring was expected in Cairo for talks with Ghalib.
